POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 14.—The Giants made their last stand today. Before a crowd numbering 20,000 or more, the New York title holders of the National League struggled to check the onward march of the Boston Americans, who, with three contests captured, need only another victory to earn them the title of the world's champions of 1912. The Giants must win three straight games to gain the championship and a victory was necessary today to give them a chance to continue the struggle against the Red Sox.

The crowd came late and the players were already on the field warming up before the bulk of the day's attendance was on hand. There was plenty of cheering and shouting, but many clouds speckled the sun and there was a threat of rain in the air.

Should New York win today the game tomorrow will be played at Boston. Tonight Manager McHugh and Stahl will have a coin to determine where the deciding contest will be played in the event that the teams win the next two contests.

The Batteries
Marquard and Meyers were announced as the batteries for New York and Collins and Doyle for Boston.

First Inning
Boston—Hooper got a single over second, of which Doyle made a fine stop but could not throw the runner out at first. Hooper was caught napping at first and thrown out. The play was Marquard to Merkle. Merkle did not suffer from the alleged concussion and the Pollard company was exonerated.

Two cases against the Boston Elevated Railway company were then called in the case of Martha E. Ripley of Cambridge, who was injured by a car for alleged injuries that she claims she sustains while a passenger on a car, the property of the Boston Elevated company. The alleged accident occurred at Temple street, Boston, on Sept. 3, 1910. In the other suit, Daniel Ripley, husband of Martha E., asks for damages of $3000 for the alleged sufferings of his wife as a result of the accident.

During the morning, Mrs. Ripley, who is badly crippled, was on the stand and while she claims that she was seriously injured in the accident on Sept. 3, she also stated that she was in a number of other accidents in which she sustained a number of injuries. Mrs. Ripley was sold on the stand at the noon adjournment. Mallin and Sloan are appearing for the plaintiff and lawyer Sears for the defendant company.

Matrimonial
Mr. Frank P. McCarthy, a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, Knights of Unity and also in the Y. M. C. A. of this city, and Miss Margaret A. Walsh, also of Lowell, were married in the chapel of the Immaculate Conception church this morning at 10 o'clock.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Fiegar, and Brother James McCarthy of Tewksbury, a brother of the bridegroom, assisted. Miss Edith Walsh, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid and Mr. William Harrington acted as best man.

The bride was very becomingly dressed in white satin, trimmed with duchess lace and she carried American beauty roses. The bridegroom wore blue silk and carried white roses. There were present a large number of relatives and friends of the couple.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was given to the gathering at the home of the bridegroom's mother on Pleasant street. The young couple received many costly and beautiful gifts. They departed on a honeymoon trip to St. John, P. O., and after Nov. 1 will reside at 15 Allen street, where they will be at home to friends. They received the hearty wishes of all for prosperity and happiness.

Larceny Charged
Frank Shepard was arrested by Inspector McCloughrey and booked at the station for the larceny of a suit of clothes on John street.

Wrist Fractured
The ambulance was called to the Tremont and Suffolk mills this afternoon. Patrick Sexton of Ardell street had a fractured wrist and was taken to the Lowell General hospital.

made a motion to throw to first but did not throw the ball, which under the rules constitutes a balk. Murray scored on Merkle's double to right, Merkle scored on Herzog's double to left. The stands were in an uproar. Meyers got an infield hit, of which Wagner made a phenomenal stop, thereby holding Herzog at third. Herzog scored on a ball thrown by Yerkes to the plate. Meyers went to third. Meyers scored on a ball hit by Fletcher. The stands were in an uproar. Fletcher was caught off first. O'Brien to Stahl. Five runs, six hits, one error.

Second Inning
Boston—Gardner reached first on Marquard's error. Stahl struck out. Gardner taking second. Wagner struck out. Only sent up a high foul to Meyers. Each batted for O'Brien. Gardner and Stahl scored on Engle's two batters to left, on which Devore made an error in playing the ball poorly off the bases. Hooper fouled out to Meyers. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Third Inning
Boston—Yerkes struck to center. Stahl hit to Snodgrass. Lewis sent a long foul to left field, which Devore caught. Gardner struck out to Murray. Only took the ball up against the fence. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Inning
Boston—Stahl scratched an infield hit toward third base. Snodgrass took Wagner's base drive. It was a brilliant catch and was made running with the ball. It cut off a three base hit and possibly a home run. Only got a single to right, Stahl taking third. Fletcher took Collins' ground and tossed to Doyle, forcing Clark at second. Doyle completed a double play by tossing out Collins at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning
Boston—Hooper fled out to Murray, who made another nice catch. Murray made a motion to throw to first but did not throw the ball, which under the rules constitutes a balk. Murray scored on Merkle's double to right, Merkle scored on Herzog's double to left. The stands were in an uproar. Meyers got an infield hit, of which Wagner made a phenomenal stop, thereby holding Herzog at third. Herzog scored on a ball thrown by Yerkes to the plate. Meyers went to third. Meyers scored on a ball hit by Fletcher. The stands were in an uproar. Fletcher was caught off first. O'Brien to Stahl. Five runs, six hits, one error.

Sixth Inning
Boston—Lewis fled out to Meyers, Gardner struck out. Stahl struck out. Marquard's speed was bewildering and his curves broke sharply. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning
Boston—Wagner out. Marquard to Merkle. Only drove a long fly to Snodgrass. Collins fled to Murray. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning

Columbus Day Celebrated by Public Parade, Religious Service and Banquet by the Knights of Columbus

CROWD GATHERED IN FRONT OF CITY HALL, SATURDAY NOON WHEN SCHOOL CHILDREN SANG PATRIOTIC SONGS.

Columbus day was fittingly and impressively observed on Saturday by the Knights of Columbus at Lowell, and the observance had many impressive features, including the singing of patriotic songs by the school children.

The observance closed with a fine need of valiant, courageous soldiers, true knights, to still keep alive the banner that Columbus first unfurled on these shores, for today our eyes meet with a new banner, a banner of another host, Columbus here means so much to mankind, the emblem of the God-Mem, Christ Jesus, how different is the banner of this new host? Christian faith? Christian hope? Christian charity? No! None of these. But in their place? No! None of these. It is the banner of nationalism. It is the banner of a host that no more man-made, man-made with Christ and the things of Christ than water can mix with oil. It is the complete antithesis of all that Christ and His Holy Name teach and imply. Although it is not an answer to

FINE PARADE WAS HELD

Local Italians Observed
Columbus Day

The members of the Christofo Colombo society observed Columbus day with a parade Saturday. Although the weather was very inclement, practically all the members of this new organization turned out and the success of the procession was very gratifying to the organizers.

At 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon the parade formed in front of the society's quarters in Middlebury street. The route of the parade was as follows:

Marched past, Lombard, Belmont, Adams, with Grace Dimadick, Lorenza, John, Elizabeth, Fanny and Louise, and also other girls, children, and the members of the society.

FANS WATCHING THE SUN BULLETINS ON THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP GAME SATURDAY

Merrimack square was taxed to its capacity Saturday with baseball fans who were unable to get to the game at Fenway park, Boston, as well as those who did not think a game could be played on Saturday afternoon, when they heard the story of the game in the Sun's bulletin in front of the temporary bulletin department of The Sun.

Following the fact that during the construction of the new Sun building in the square the paper is obliged to occupy temporary quarters, the Sun's bulletin department was moved to the temporary bulletin department of The Sun.

GIVEN PURSE OF GOLD

Mrs. Choquette Was Tendered Reception

Mrs. Josephine Choquette of this city was yesterday tendered a fine reception by her children and grandchildren on the occasion of the 79th anniversary of her birth. The family gathering, which was held at the home of Mrs. Choquette, was in charge of Mrs. Choquette's son, Rev. Victor Choquette.

The most of the day was presented a well filled purse of gold, the presentation being made by Rev. Victor Choquette, who in behalf of his other relatives congratulated the venerable woman.

As the conclusion of the address a turkey dinner was served and an excellent musical program was rendered. Among those present at the fête were: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Herbert, Elizabeth Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander, Misses Alexander, Lamb and Corinne Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Choquette and Joseph Choquette, all of this city; William Herbert of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Choquette of Lawrence, Mr. Edward H. Choquette and Miss Bernadette Choquette of New Bedford; Mrs. Honore Bourget and Rev. Victor Choquette, both of Malden.

Mrs. Choquette is the mother of eight children. She makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Herbert of Moody street, this city, but for the past two weeks has been visiting her son and daughter, Rev. Victor Choquette and Mrs. Honore Bourget, of Malden. She was born at St. Alban, Que., 79 years ago last Friday and came to this city 42 years ago, having lived in Lowell ever since. She is a prominent member of St. Anne's society and the United Order of St. Francis of St. Joseph's parish and a valuable aid to the parish.

The new gymnasium for Rogers Hall will be formally opened Tuesday, Oct. 22, at 11 a. m. Dr. Dudley Allen Sargent of Harvard will deliver an address.

A still alarm was sent to House 7 in Central street yesterday afternoon for a night fire in a house in the rear of 11 city street. The fire found its way between the partitions and gave the women considerable trouble before they succeeded in extinguishing it. The damage was slight.

THE MEXICAN PEOPLE

May be Ruled by Dictator
Says Madero

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—The Mexican people must be prepared to be governed by a dictator "who will rule by the sword" if they fail to support the present administration, according to President Madero.

The statement was made in a speech at a banquet at which the guests were congressmen and politicians in private life. The banqueters retired with only an indistinct idea of just what it was the president had meant and since then the public has generally done much guessing as to his real meaning.

When Madero was spreading the doctrine of equality and democracy, there were few who would have believed there was the making of a despotic dictator in him. Since then, however, by his invocation of the law of suspension of constitutional guarantees, he has displayed some of the signs of a successful "Iron Man." Many have suggested that President Madero was warning them that he himself would be the one to "rule by the sword."

"Long ago," said the president, "when I first began my work, I decided that the will of the people was the will of God. This will must be respected, and I consider it my duty to see that it is. The present government has fulfilled its promises, and if the government freely elected by the people cannot sustain itself it will be proof that the Mexican people are incapable of democracy. It would then be necessary to call a dictator who will govern by the sword."

The president also bitterly assailed the press, an institution for whose untrammelled liberty he fought. "The portion of the press which has survived," said the president, "is in its majority a relic of the old regime. It tries to alarm and to deceive the people, but it tried to do so for thirty years and still the people revolted, and they will refuse to believe it now."

President Madero Worried

How much reliance the executive can place upon the support of congress this fall and winter is not known. That President Madero became worried during the first days of the session was evident. It had appeared that the government party, or the progressives, had the control of the chamber when that body was gathering at the capital, but not a week had passed when it became apparent that the chamber had been split into many factions, giving no party the control. Worse still, men who had been elected by the votes of one party solemnly announced their own political views as different from that of their constituents and lined up with one of the many factions.

All that became certain early in the session was that there was a strong group who declared their support of the administration "so long as they approved of the government's measures." The conversation most frequently heard in the lobby was that "Congress was going to complicate the affairs of the country; that congress would give instructions to the president rather than receive them."

Radical Changes Made

Adversity had resulted in an alteration of the personnel of Pascual Orozco's immediate following. The rough riding of the guerrilla warfare, made necessary by the campaign of General Huerta and by the efficiency of the American authorities in preventing the exportation of arms and ammunition, did not appeal to a number of the more fastidious rebels, and they have disappeared from Orozco's army.

One of the first to go was Gonzalo Ramirez, a polished product of the old regime, who had charge of the treasury of the rebels. Jose Cordoba, who bore the title of general secretary of the revolution, was one of those captured by Americans at Ojinaga when the father of the rebel leader was taken in custody.

Others who for various reasons have left the service of the rebel chief voluntarily include Alfonso Castaneda, chief of staff, Miguel Quiroga, and Jose Serret. These three left together and established their temporary homes in Canada. Castaneda and Serret had been in the regular army, the latter at one time paymaster general. Quiroga is a resident of San Antonio, Texas, though a citizen of Monterey, Mexico. Jose Ponce and Jose Casares, both colonels in the rebel establishment, are reported to have gone together to the United States. Casares was paymaster general of the rebel army. His home was at Las Cruces, N. M. Ponce was a citizen of Mexico, but the greater part of his life was spent in the United States.

Two others who are out of the fight are Ricardo Gomez Robelo and David de la Fuente, both residents of the Mexican capital. Both have been tried at El Paso on the charge of con-spring to violate the neutrality laws and exonerated. Due to the injury of an arm by a bursting shell at the battle of Villa Lopez, de la Fuente probably never will return to the field.

All these men were of the type who can wear evening clothes without appearing "dressed up." There remain in the field many of their type, but the dominant element at present is the plainer and perhaps sterner material, though at no time did the departed element show signs of less courage as long as they were in the revolution.

RAPID GROWTH

Of Commerce Between Atlantic and Pacific Coasts by Way of the Isthmus of Panama and Tehuantepec

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Commerce between the eastern and western coasts of the United States is in the way of the isthmus of Panama and Tehuantepec shows a remarkable growth in recent years. Figures just made public by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce and labor show that this traffic has tripled in value in the last four years. Prior to 1907 all merchandise passing between the eastern and western coasts of the United States by way of the isthmus utilized the Panama railway. At the beginning of 1907, however, a railway line 190 miles in length was opened across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in Southern Mexico, constructed with special facilities for transferring merchandise from vessel to railway and railway to vessel, and since that date this traffic, on both the Panama and Tehuantepec railway lines, has grown very rapidly and amounted in the fiscal year, 1912, to 125 million dollars in value, against 36 million in 1908. These figures, which include only domestic merchandise passing by way of the isthmus between the eastern and western coasts of the United States (including, however, Porto Rico as among the western ports), suggest that a still greater growth in this traffic between the eastern and western coasts is likely to develop with the opportunity for vessel shipments without breaking bulk at the isthmus, which will come with the opening of the Panama canal.

The value of growth in this coast to coast traffic by way of the isthmus has developed, as above indicated, since the opening of the Tehuantepec railway. The total value of shipments from the Atlantic coast ports to the Pacific coast ports in the year ended June 30, 1908, the first fiscal year including a full year's operation of the Tehuantepec road was 18.4 million dollars of which over 12 million passed by way of the Tehuantepec road. By 1912 the total had grown to 69.1 million dollars, of which a little over 35 million was by way of Tehuantepec.

From Pacific coast ports to Atlantic coast ports by way of the isthmus was, in the fiscal year 1908, 19.4 million dollars, of which about 18.1 million passed by way of the Tehuantepec road. In the fiscal year 1912 this total had grown to practically 55 million dollars, of which a little less than 45 million crossed by the Tehuantepec road.

Practically all of the sugar sent from Hawaii to the eastern coast of the United States goes by way of Tehuantepec and forms considerably more than one-half of the eastward movement of domestic merchandise from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast by way of the Tehuantepec road; while merchandise from the eastern coast bound for the Hawaiian Islands forms approximately 10 per cent of the eastward movement of domestic merchandise across the Tehuantepec road.

LIVELY BLAZE BROKE OUT

In a Saloon in Market Street

What threatened to be a dangerous fire broke out on the third story of Thomas E. Duffy's saloon and restaurant at 17-19 Market street about 6.30 o'clock Friday night and but for the prompt arrival and efficient work of the fire department considerable damage might have been done.

The fire started in a pot of grease used to fry fish cakes for the restaurant and when discovered the flames were shooting to the ceiling of the room and the reflection through the windows gave people in Market street the impression that the interior of the place was like a roaring furnace.

An alarm from box 12 was sounded and the department was soon on the scene. The protective company hustled up the stairs with a chemical line, but upon seeing that the fire was in a pot of fat they realized that the chemical was useless and they rushed to the boiler room, where they secured ashes and throwing them on the blaze succeeded in extinguishing it. The damage was not very great, although the ceiling was ruined, walls scorched and furniture coated with grease.

The contents of the building was insured through the agency of Collins & Thomas, 2 C. Church holds the insurance on the building.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—"Smoky" Joe Wood, the Boston Red Sox star slapper, who won the first and third games of the world's series by wonderful pitching, is only 22 years old and has been in the major leagues only three years. His first year was a decided frost. Last year he pitched very fair ball, but this season the little speed merchant has outdone himself, making his fast out with a fine collection of quick breaking curves. Furthermore, Wood has a head, as was shown in the first game at the Polo grounds, when in the ninth inning with two men on bases, one out and the Giant rooters yelling like mad, he fanned Fletcher and Crandall and saved the game. The picture shows Joe waiting his turn at bat and the way in which he holds the ball for a sharp breaking out drop. In the second game in New York Joe pitched one as balls in nine innings. Thirty-three were strikes and only 25 were balls.

BEDIENT'S REMARKABLE PITCHING

Against Mighty Mathewson Enabled Red Sox to Defeat Giants Saturday

(By Sporting Editor of The Sun.) In the presence of the largest crowd of fans that ever attended a game of baseball at Boston, the Red Sox won from the New York Giants in the first game of the series Saturday afternoon, the score being 2 to 1. The game was played in fast time, too, and the multitude of people converged from Fenway park well satisfied that the team piloted by Jake Stahl is the one that will have the honor of being captioned "World Champions."

By winning yesterday's contest the series now stands 1 to 1 in favor of the team representing the capital of our good old Bay State.

The result of the game was a source of great pleasure to all Red Sox admirers, but was particularly pleasing to the many lower people, who were numbered among the cheering throng, inasmuch as the unexpected victory in the game is a triumph from the little old New England league. This gentleman man, whose name is now honored by all Boston, is Hugh Bedient. He pitched a remarkable game, giving the best exhibition of pitching seen in the present championship series.

Bedient was born at Palmer, N. Y., Oct. 22, 1882. He started his professional baseball career with Fall River in the New England league in 1910. He finished the season with the record of 12 "wins" and 9 "defeats." At the end of the season he was traded by the Red Sox. He was then in the California training camp in 1911, but was sent to Providence to acquire a little more experience. He pitched there during the 1911 campaign and won 8 games and lost 11. The Sox recalled him at the close of the season and this year he has greatly helped the Sox and the 1912 pennant.

Bedient's work was especially remarkable, coming to the fore in the last inning, when he pitched against the mighty Mathewson, who also pitched a great game. It was truly a pitching battle, Bedient allowing three hits and Mathewson allowing three hits and a run. The contest was a rare privilege to see, a contest where strength and endurance were equal to craft, experience and cunning, and once again truth was served.

Boston scored the two runs that won the game in the third inning, while the Giants' lone tally came in the seventh stanza and the three runs were the scoring of the contest, as in all other sessions, the remarkable pitching of Bedient and Mathewson held the counting station sacred.

Bedient Wild at Start
Young Bedient was wild in the opening sessions, but his teammates realized

ing that their pitcher was nervous worked hard to hold their opponents in check. In the first, second and third innings he issued three passes and allowed one hit, this by Matty. He then settled down and thereafter gave a wonderful exhibition.

In the nine innings he allowed the Giants a trio of hits, one of these being Merkle's double to the left field bleachers in the seventh, which resulted in the Giants' run. The New York first baseman, after reaching third, scoring when Gardner fumbled. Pinch hitter McGinnis's blow to the third corner. Gardner's error was the only slipup made by the Red Sox. Before the seventh and after the "lucky session," Bedient was never in serious trouble. In the game only three McGinnis reached second and one third, this being Merkle, who killed.

Matty Also Got Bad Start
Bedient started badly and so did Matty. Bedient pitched wonderfully, so did Matty. It took Bedient three innings to settle down and it took Matty the same period to get his bearings.

It was the third inning that defeated the Giants and shattered Matty's ambitions. For it was here that the swats of Hooper, Yerkes and Speaker resulted in the two runs that sent Matty back to New York humiliated with defeat. But in the hour of defeat he has the admiration of all who saw his great exhibition of "coming back" and holding his opponents well in hand, anticipating that his teammates would come across with the blows to enable him to turn the tide. This his teammates failed to do, and without their hits "Big Six" was forced to take the count.

After the disastrous third Matty put everything he had on the ball and not a Red Soxer even saw first base. He appeared to grow stronger as the game continued, and it is hard to imagine what would have happened had Matty's teammates tied the score. This, however, the Sox fought against, and with Bedient's shots being unresolvable and the entire Boston team playing like lions, Matty's chances faded away.

Hooper and Yerkes
Though Bedient and Matty pitched admirably, neither could expect to win without the better assistance of the other members of their respective outfits. The better assistance was received by Bedient, for in the former's third, when Hooper and Yerkes batted, they slid three sacks, followed by Bedient's error of Speaker's slam, the follow that spelled victory were accumulated.

In the first and second innings, despite the fact that the Sox got to Matty's offerings for three hits he stalled them away from the plate.

plause continued as Speaker stepped to the station. McGraw sent his utility twirler down to the corner to warm up, and Matty stood in the box patiently until the rear of the excited multitude subsided.

Cap. Doyle played in close, ready to make a play to the plate. Doyle and Speaker well sized up, for the Boston centre fielder shot one that Larry missed, the ball going to right field, while Yerkes scored. Speaker tried to reach second, but went out, Murray to Fletcher, on a beautiful throw by the former. After this play not a Red Sox reached first base, Matty tightening up, and thereafter giving a magnificent exhibition of pitching.

Bedient continued to pitch with great confidence after his team made the tally, and though Merkle's hit and Gardner's error allowed the Giants a run, he held control of the situation at all other times.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The third game of the world series, which was played here, was of the sensational kind. There were spectacular base running, snappy fielding, sensational catches and brilliant pitching. Rube Marquard's twirling was of the best—in fact, Reuben pitched one of the greatest games of his career. O'Brien of the Red Sox also twirled good ball. Josh Devore's great running catch in the ninth, ending the game, was nothing short of phenomenal. Little Devore was playing well back, as it was, but he got under way at the crack of Catcher Cady's bat. Snodgrass crossed over from centre and also went after the ball. It appeared that it would pass between them when suddenly Devore reached out in front of him, still going at full speed, clutched the ball and pulled it against his breast. He went 20 feet farther before he could pull himself down to a walk, and the crowd stood still a full five seconds, gazing thunderstruck at the outfielder. Picture shows Murray sliding safely across the plate in the second inning with the first run of the game. Jack had doubled, raced to third on a sacrifice and by fast sprinting beat Hooper's fine throw to the plate of Herzog's sacrifice fly.

HYLAN IS THE CHAMPION FIVE MEN WERE RESCUED

He Won Title in Vesper Club Tournament

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 14.—There seemed little prospect yesterday of saving the 21-ton New York steamer John B. Dallas, which ran ashore day in New England. He is prominently connected with the Brookline Country club and held the club championships of both clubs. Hylian secured the club championship in 1908 at the Brookline Country club and won the heavy handicap at the same club in 1909. There was great rivalry in the contest for the club championship, all the star golfers of the clubs competing.

The players entering the contest were: R. W. Gleason, W. G. Eaton, T. T. Clark, A. H. Morton, A. D. Butterfield, L. H. Sherman, H. J. Corwin, Frank Stuart, Thomas Nesmith, Sr., A. H. Sweet, John B. Hylian, R. A. Wood, J. E. Keyes, J. P. Tolson, M. Gulliver. Three rounds were played before the final in the first round, A. D. Butterfield defeated L. H. Sherman, R. A. Wood defeated R. W. Gleason, A. H. Sweet defeated J. P. Tolson, J. Whittier defeated Frank Stuart, H. J. Corwin defeated T. Nesmith, Sr., J. B. Hylian defeated A. H. Morton, W. G. Eaton defeated J. E. Keyes and T. T. Clark defeated M. Gulliver.

In the second round R. A. Wood defeated A. H. Sweet, J. B. Hylian defeated A. D. Butterfield, J. K. Whittier defeated H. J. Corwin and T. T. Clark defeated W. G. Eaton.

In the final round J. B. Hylian defeated J. K. Whittier, T. T. Clark defeated R. A. Wood.

The open tournament at Long Meadow Saturday was postponed on account of the disagreeable weather. It was to be an 18-hole match, with medal handicap play.

The tennis committee was scheduled to play the tournament committee at Mt. Pleasant Saturday but on account of the weather the match was postponed.

TEXTILE ELEVEN

Was Defeated by the Lawrence Academy Team by a Score of 3 to 0 Saturday

The Lowell Textile school football team was defeated by Lawrence academy by a score of 3 to 0 on the Textile school campus Saturday afternoon. This was the first game that the school had played this season and the members of the eleven did not appear to be in very good condition. There is good reason in the lineup and it is expected that within a week or two the boys will get into the running and play better than they did on Saturday. The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Lowell Textile school: McGovern, D. Davenport, R. Carlson, H. Pillsbury, C. Fisher, R. Adams, R. Rodgers, C. Casey, H. Crawford, H. Lawson, G. B. and Murray, G.

Lawrence academy: Palmer, D. Cameron, H. Davenport, H. Williams, C. Bond, R. Davis, R. Ashmore, R. Luce, H. Hamilton, R. Burchmeyer, D. and Burke, G.

Thrilling Plays When New York Giants Won From the Boston Red Sox and Evened the Score

DEVORE SAFE AT FIRST

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Never before have baseball games for the championship of the world been so exciting or with such close finishes. In the first three games the result was not certain until the last ball was thrown. A hit on the last ball thrown in the first game, won by Boston, or the third game, won by New York, would have changed victory to defeat or defeat to victory, depending on which side your sympathies lie. The second game here abounded with thrilling plays, the catch of Cady's long fly in the last half of the ninth inning being the most exciting. There were runners on record and third, and if the fly had fallen safe they would have scored and given victory to the Red Sox.

A FIERCE FIGHT WITH CONVICTS

Guards Attempt to Quell Mutiny in the State Prison at Rawlins, Wyoming

RAWLINS, Wyo., Oct. 14.—A battle raged early last night in the state penitentiary. Locked inside the walls with hundreds of mutinous prisoners, a few guards fought desperately to restore order and prevent a wholesale jail delivery.

Camped outside the walls was a force of citizens heavily armed, ready to drive back the convicts if they murdered the remaining guards and made a rush through the gates. Shots and occasional shots told of desperate fighting within the walls and it was rumored that several guards and convicts were killed.

Another battle was in progress at the same time in the hills south of Rawlins, between a posse of citizens and escaped prisoners.

Two men were killed in the streets of Rawlins, one was dangerously wounded and two convicts were captured, following the escape of from 10 to 30 prisoners yesterday afternoon. The town is in panic.

Francis telegrams were sent to Gov. Corey, now at Sheridan, imploring him to send state troops to protect the citizens. Townspeople, armed themselves in their home last night, or heavily armed, patrolled the streets.

The outbreak yesterday was the second within 24 hours. About 3 p. m. Saturday 20 prisoners escaped, and nine were recaptured before 8 o'clock.

At 2:30 yesterday afternoon a party of desperate life-termers overpowered the cellhouse keeper, took his keys and released their comrades from their cells. Every prisoner willing to risk a battle with the guards made a rush for the gates.

A moment later the citizens of the town heard a fusillade of shots inside the walls. A bedlam of shouts and yells echoed from the prison. A few seconds later more than a dozen men dashed down the main street armed with guns and knives.

Holding the few citizens at bay with revolvers they charged into a livery barn, holding up the proprietor and hastily throwing saddles and bridles on the horses.

A huge negro, armed with a revolver, was left as guard on the outside. Charles Strosser, a barber, had heard the commotion and came down the street with a shotgun. The negro shot him through the head, killing him instantly.

Make Dash for Hills
At the sound of the shot, the convicts swarmed from the barn, some with stolen horses and some on foot. A Mexican wantedly stabbed the proprietor in the face, severely wounding him, and a few seconds later paid for the deed with his life. Earl Rogers, a deputy sheriff, shot him, killing him instantly.

Leaving their dead comrades the convicts and a dash for the rocky hills south of the town. A party of penitentiary guards followed in close per-walls. Many of them were armed. Soon a riot was in progress, the guards battling desperately to save their own lives and prevent the escape of every convict in the institution. The gates remained locked and no definite word came out early last night regarding events within.

Persons coming into town from the south bring stories of a reign of terror in the country districts. Riders have been sent to the ranches for a radius of several miles, warning the owners to be prepared to defend their property. Several parties, who went south yesterday on horseback or in carriages returned last night afraid, their horses having been stolen by the convicts.

May Have Killed Guards
The escapes of Saturday and yesterday appear to be the result of a general plot inside the prison.

It is not known how the prisoners who made their break for liberty yesterday afternoon got the guns with which they dashed from the gates.

It is possible the local officers believe that they killed a number of guards after overpowering the cellhouse keeper and took away their weapons. Another theory is that the guns were smuggled into the prison by friends of the men who escaped Saturday.

Warden Aiston has been in the hills since Saturday and has not been located, although reports were sent out last night to tell him of the events of the day. A deputy warden said last night he did not know the exact number of the men who escaped.

It is believed the gang leaders in the delivery of some of the men who several days ago lynched inside the prison was Frank Whittall, a negro, who had attacked an armed woman.

Several weeks ago, several of the most desperate characters in the prison had their sentences cut down for aiding in putting out a fire in one of the buildings, thereby saving the penitentiary from probable destruction.

MAYOR WAS ARRESTED

But He Was Released After Short Time

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—Mayor Henry T. Hunt was arrested at the city hall on two warrants charging that when he was county prosecutor he committed a felony by accepting settlements of claims against breweries. The complainant is A. H. Tarvin, secretary of the Owl Publishing company, which publishes a small weekly paper the editor of which was recently arrested at the mayor's instance on a charge of selling scurrilous publications to minors. Mayor Hunt went to the court of Magistrate Hohenstein, who issued the warrants, but no complainant appeared, and the case was dismissed. The mayor afterward explained that while he was prosecuting officer the settlements were made with breweries to save money for the county.

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—"Smoky" Joe as his hand and arm, for he does not Wood, the man who throws a ball so fast that batsmen can't see it—and throws. He lets his fingers do some-thing, and when it is necessary to fool a batter he is able to do it. This was shown in the last lining of the first York Giants, and twice he has con- quered them. He has proved to be third and only one out, he fanned even better than his friends said, and Fletcher and Crandall, two hard hit- has shown that he has his nerves under perfect control, for nothing can rattle him. ## Lowell High School and Lawrence High School Football Elevens Played an Exciting Game Saturday

LOWELL HIGH MAKING A LINE PLUNGE IN SATURDAY'S GAME WITH LAWRENCE HIGH.

A recitation of the final score, 0 to 0, was clean and as fast as could be expected on such a day as last Saturday. There were no distasteful disregard of the rules and the only spirit in evidence on either side was a wholesome and friendly rivalry. There were but three penalties imposed and those were for offside play or holding in the line. The exhibition was indeed a credit to both schools, to their coaches, their faculties, their student bodies and their players, and the officials conduct-

The Lawrence team seemed to have the advantage of greater weight and Duhamel, who tips the scales at 190, was a tower of strength for the visitors, being stopped in his force plunges only by the great tackling of Captain Cawley of Lowell. Several times the goal of the local team was threatened, and in such crises as these the Lowell lineemen held strongest and forced their opponents to lose the ball on down when a touchdown seemed inevitable. The two ends, Carter and Trull, were prominent both in defensive and offensive play and their work with that of Captain Cawley was a feature of the afternoon. Every man on the team seemed to outdo himself in that game and the weak points manifested in the contest with Manchester high a short time ago have disappeared.

Quarterback Shayer of the local eleven and Higgins of Lawrence proved very good generals and both handled their teams in a manner that was very commendable. The game throughout

Whist Party

A delightful whist party was held at the Notre Dame de Lourdes school hall Friday evening in order to celebrate the opening of the new rectory. The affair was organized by Miss Yvonne Martin and was largely attended. Delegations from Gardes d'Honneur, Frontenac, Saints Anges, Jacques Cartier and Sacre Coeur of this city and Gardes Rochambeau of Nashua, N. H., were present in their regalia. Outside of a pleasant game of whist the following program was also enjoyed to a great extent by the large audience: Piano solo, Louis Boudreau; comic song by Adelmar Desmarais; song by Joseph Lamy; piano solo, Miss Rose Desaulniers, and declamation, Miss Yvonne Martin. During the evening dainty refreshments were served and an agreeable time was spent. Among those in attendance were Rev. Leon Lamothe, O. M. I., pastor of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish; Rev. Fr. Barrett, O. M. I., and Rev. Fr. Lagan-iere, O. M. I.

"CASCARETS" MAKE YOU FEEL GREAT

Cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, rummy stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, troubling, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passage for a day or two—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour undigested and fermenting food and foul gases like the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constituted waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels clean and regular for months.

At present not far from half a million cases are brought before the low police courts in a year. It appears that criminality of a serious character has shown practically no change for the past ten years.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY

The national association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis has appointed October 21 as Tuberculosis day in the churches, with the understanding that preachers will impress upon their congregations on that day the necessity of stopping the ravages of tuberculosis by preventive measures and by proper treatment as soon as the disease makes its appearance.

It is estimated that take remedies amounting to $15,000,000 are sold annually to people suffering from this disease. The national association divides these cures into three classes, first, devices and drugs ranging in price from ten cents to five dollars; second, the institutes conducted by doctors who claim to have a secret cure for consumption. These are the most successful of all swindlers if judged by the amount of money they extort from their patrons. The third "cure" consists of home-made remedies which are imposed upon the sufferers as certain cures if followed long enough. These include charms, mixtures, oils, coal dust, lime dust, rattlesnake poison and other crude ingredients.

The national association holds that as yet there has been no specific for tuberculosis except fresh air, good food, and rest, taken under the direction of a competent physician.

The local crusade against the disease has practically been forgotten. For a time the people were alive to the necessity of keeping their homes absolutely clean, of removing all filth and rubbish from the vicinity, and above all to provide for ample ventilation both by day and night. The matter of ventilation is one on which a great many people require enlightenment. The homes of the poor owing to the small rooms, the low studding and the lack of proper facilities for ventilation, seldom enjoy a breath of real fresh air. The environment as a rule is also bad so that the air enters these dwellings charged with the foul odors from stables, garbage cans, sewers or cess-pools in the vicinity. There is much need of enlightenment on this whole question in order to impress upon all the people wherein the danger lurks and how to avoid it. The modes of preventing this disease are more hygienic than medical and it would be well if the board of health adopted some means of educating the masses upon the best prevention measures.

THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE

"Something is wrong in this country, our government must be changed, the people are not getting a fair show, they are obliged to pay three prices for what they purchase; the whole system must be overhauled and reconstructed. Who will provide the remedy? It won't come soon or we shall have a revolution."

This is the kind of talk heard among the people who discuss politics around the streets. It is the view of men who have not given much study to the affairs of government but who realize full well that something is wrong and that a prompt remedy is urgently demanded by public necessity. All this is true and the root of the difficulty is not so very hard to find as some suppose. Indeed it is self-evident to those who have followed the course of events during the past twenty-five years. This system that presses so hard upon the people at the present time is but the result of the republican scheme of over protection which shuts out foreign competition and then throttles domestic competition. Thus the trusts and combines of the country are enabled to control the necessities of life. They can hoard them up until the prices reach the highest point the people can pay. Then if any attempt is made to relieve the stringency by foreign importation the supply held in cold storage or otherwise is let go and the foreign importer is underbid so that he is not likely to make such another attempt.

The remedy for this situation is to break the monopoly by removing the high tariff so as to restore reasonable and ruinous competition. This is what the democratic party proposes to do; it is what Governor Wilson advocates and what will be done by the democratic administration at Washington after March 4, 1913.

TATT AND ROOSEVELT

President Taft's increasing confidence in his chance of re-election is probably based upon the reports of his campaign manager who early in the contest established the country by announcing that Taft would carry enough states to elect him. At that time Roosevelt was more powerful than he is today and he appeared to be in a fair way to prevent Taft from carrying any important states.

But Roosevelt has been down up by Archibald, Penrose and others and his another day on he has been shown of his strength so that today it is doubtful if he will be able to take half the republican vote from Taft. The republicans leaving Taft are not going to Roosevelt but to Wilson. That is because they have had their eyes opened by the revelations as to how he conducted himself in 1901, and the outlandish things advocated by Roosevelt such as the referendum on the decisions of the supreme court and the recall of judges. Stagnation, the constitution and the supreme court under Mr. Roosevelt very much and hence the most radical planks of his platform are directed against them.

It is estimated that more than 40,000 republicans will support Wilson through the Wilson national progressive republican league. This is a small part of the republican vote to be cast for Wilson on election day.

SCARLET FEVER EPIDEMIC

The scarlet fever epidemic has gone so far as to become positively alarming. If the board of health does not adopt active measures in checking the infection of cases, the schools may have to be shut down in certain parts of the city. If half the cases are on the route of a walk man it would be well to have like suspend business for a time. It is the first epidemic of the summer it appears that from the beginning, there was reason to believe that the cases originated with somebody connected with the distribution of milk through the city by one dealer. Had the board of health acted promptly and with the degree of vigilance demanded by the seriousness of the case, it might have not only checked the epidemic by near total isolation of cases, but traced their origin and had timely steps taken to stamp out the epidemic.

It is stated that American beef can be sent to England and returned to this country, paying the regular tariff duty, and then sold at a reasonable profit, yet at a price under that prevailing in this country today. This indicates that the beef trust is simply imposing upon the people and extorting prices that are actually outrageous. If there was any competition from abroad no such price could be maintained in this country, and hence the necessity of cutting off the tariff on meat. What is true of beef in this respect is also true of many other commodities, the prices of which are held much higher than they should be.

The patriotism of the Greeks in this country is shown in their willingness to give not only their money but their lives, if necessary, for the mother land. The illustrious history of Greece, the glory of her heroes and the power of her orators, all combine to inspire the Greeks of the present day with the ardor of patriotism to defend their country and their race. It must be gratifying to any ruler to find such loyalty to the fatherland even among those who have long ago emigrated in hopes of bettering their conditions.

William Jennings Bryan is authority for the statement that the state of California will go roundly for Wilson. The progressive element have succeeded in getting out Mr. Taft, but they cannot shut out Wilson. Already it is conceded even by republicans that Wilson is very likely to carry the state.

Seen and Heard

A story is told of a certain lawyer who practiced in the police courts of this city a number of years ago, says the New York Herald. He was unfortunate in obtaining business and was not only driven to use every artifice to get clients, but was compelled to accept any fee, however small. On one occasion he was retained by a young man to defend him from a charge of burglary. The evidence was insufficient to obtain a conviction and the prisoner was discharged.

"What fee did you get?" the lawyer was asked by a friend upon the dismissal of the case.

"Two dollars, a ring, a pocketknife and a comb," was the reply.

"And did you take a fee like that?" persisted the interrogator with a sneer.

"Well, it was everything the fellow had," was the apologetic explanation.

When the late Senator Taylor of Tennessee was governor of that state he was interrupted just as he sat down to luncheon at home one day by a message from the capitol to the effect that two men from an outside town wanted to see the governor at once.

The governor said to Sam, his negro helper, who brought in the message: "Sam, tell them I'll be right down."

"Yes, sir," said Sam.

"Sam," broke in Mrs. Taylor, "you tell them the governor will be down in half an hour—after he has finished his luncheon."

"Sam," said the governor, "say I'll be right down."

"Oh, half an hour, Sam," said Mrs. Taylor.

"Sam," said the governor, "do you know who is governor of Tennessee?"

"Yes, sir," replied Sam; "I'll tell 'em you'll be down in half an hour."

A thistle pushed its way up through the stony ground.

The farmer said: "A scourge has come; I'll bruise it ere it sheds its bloom."

And lo! the thistle perished and made a mortal wound.

A thistle pushed its way up through the stony ground.

The farmer said: "Tis at love's call, the field is large enough for all."

Lo! when the poor unfortunate had bloomed he found

A home-cup deep nestled in its purple heart.

So sweet 'twas kindness on the air; So sweet that butterflies drank there.

Even when the blessed bloom with life was called to part

It flashed a silver shadow with whose mystic power The wild rose could not hope to vie.

Wind-wafted then I saw it lie Soft shining on the breast of many an autumn flower.

It laughed on flinging summer's neck, with soft caress.

As softly it pulsed in flight, The crimson joy caught the light, And all the highway felt the touch of tenderness.

—Herbert Randall.

Held an Outing

The members of Court St. Paul, C. O. E. held a well attended outing at Danville, Mass., yesterday afternoon. A dainty dinner was served and a very pleasant afternoon was spent, the program including vocal and instrumental selections, and sports among the young ones.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of the following: Arthur Layelle, Paul Charbonneau, Arthur J. Robillard and Alfred Lebel.

Breaks a Cold in a Few Hours—Pape's First dose Pape's Cold Compound relieves gripe

After the very first dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" you distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable gripe symptoms leaving.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound taken every few hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure gripe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or lungs.

It promptly ends the most miserable headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous, catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this wonderful Compound with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world which will cure your cold or gripe misery as promptly and without any other assistance as had after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—it contains no opiates, no pure lemon and water, and ask for a refund no substitute belongs in every home. Tastes nice—acts gently.

LIST OF THE TEACHERS

For Y. W. C. A. Courses

This Winter

The members of the Y. W. C. A. can consider themselves fortunate as the officers of the association have secured most competent instructors who will take up the practical side of their education as well as the physical side. Everything which is necessary for the education of a young lady has been secured and the members may be able to pursue these lines for a modest sum.

Miss Frances E. Baier is the director of the teaching classes.

The instructors of the classes are given in the following list:

Dressmaking—Miss Frances E. Baier, instructor. Lessons will be given every Thursday at 7:15-9:15 p. m.

Millinery—Miss Maud C. Pannstedt, instructor. Lessons will be given every Thursday at 7:15-9:15 p. m.

French—Madame D. H. Laporte, instructor. Lessons will be given every Wednesday at 7:15 p. m.

Christmas gift class—Miss Grace Hadley Byam, instructor. Lessons will be given every Tuesday at 7:15 p. m.

This class will be given instruction in embroidery, fancy and needlework, stenciling and in the making of various Christmas gifts.

Cooking—The instructor for this class has not as yet been secured. The beginners' class will take place every Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Advanced class every Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

English—Miss Baier. Lessons will be given every Monday at 7:30 p. m. This class will be free of charge and open to all members.

Musical—Classes in sight singing and choral practice will be given by Mr.

Albert Edmund Brown of the Lowell Normal school and the Chautauque Institute at Chautauque, N. Y.

Classes every Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Arts and crafts—Mrs. Edith DeWitt, instructor. Former principal of the Evening Drawing school. The classes will be held every Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and will include pottery, metal and jewelry work and stenciling.

These classes offer a great opportunity for any member who cares to take them, and the association officers are to be congratulated on their success in securing such competent instructors.

Classes in physical education will be held every day, excepting Wednesday, and will be under the direction of Miss Frances E. Baier.

Several clubs have been formed among the girls, all having some special object.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, Mrs. C. T. Upson, general secretary, Miss Harriet L. Boutelle, business secretary, Miss Mary C. Field, home secretary, Miss Mary C. Hyde.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Though a jury was selected within less than four days and considerable progress has already been made in the trial of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the indications are that the trial will not be finished for several weeks.

John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for Becker, cross-examines each of the state's witnesses daily. Indeed he has been stopped several times by Justice Goff, who rules that no actual purpose can be served by longer quizzing. The 12 men who are listening to the testimony will be virtual prisoners during the trial. They will take their luncheons together under the guard of officers at a restaurant near the criminal courts building and will get their other meals and sleep at the Murray Hill hotel.

REV. CALEB E. FISHER

Says People Should Go to Church

"Why Jones Should Go to Church" was the subject of a rather interesting sermon by Rev. Caleb E. Fisher at the First Universalist church, last night. In part, he said:

"The lack of interest in the Protestant churches in this city is evident from many sources. On all sides you hear talk of contributing, ministers are leaving the city, and various other signs point to a very deplorable fact. The plain fact is that just about 20 per cent of the Protestant population of Lowell attend morning worship in any church."

Various reasons are also advanced for this state of affairs. I have heard the young men say that when they were young—their parents made them go to church and now they are independent—that the old folks were not trying to build a habit but the growing child along with several other good ones—the church, some church, if only as a habit I tell you, for it's a mighty good habit for any man to get."

The possession of an automobile is another reason advanced for the non-attendance at church. We all might be tempted, I suppose, if we owned automobiles, but I really believe that if I possessed the fortune of a millionaire I would at least attend morning worship on the Sabbath and start the day right. When I came down to church this morning I saw hundreds of automobiles on their way to various points of interest, and in the Protestant churches there were empty pews—and many of them.

"In the church the man, particularly the young man, falls under the right influence. He meets the right people, and comes into the real life of the community, for the church is the gathering place of all men and women with the right idea of life."

The church has its faults, all church attending people are not the highest type of Christian people. Perhaps the church needs an abundance of new blood, but the man needs the church just as much as the church needs the man. The place for a man is inside, trying to correct the faults, and not outside criticising."

In spite of the handicaps, the minor faults, the church work is progressing rapidly. The church will be found spreading its influence far beyond what is generally believed. Hospitals are being built, charitable institutions being maintained, and the work in the sun is going on to a greater extent than is commonly supposed. The household economies of a united church are easily imagined."

"Go to church, I say again. There are valid reasons sometimes for absence from church. If I were to ask a certain number of men why they did not go to church, they would all have reasons of some sort. Some would be honest reasons, too, and others would be the same old excuses they are never pay any attention to. Be honest, any way, and don't be a lazy, shifty sort of a mortal that hangs around the house all day Sunday, possibly goes out about 4 o'clock if he has ambition enough to get dressed. Every man that is a man has some conception of the day right. When I came down to least has some conception of the duty he owes to his God. If he doesn't, he is a poor sort of a man, and this world has no place for him."

INEPEGUT IS DEAD

Ute Indian Murdered His Mother

MYTON, Utah, Oct. 14.—Inepagut, a Ute Indian, who for almost three years has done penance for the murder of his mother by going naked and refusing to mingle with other members of his tribe, was found dead in his lonely abode near here yesterday. Inepagut refused to wear any sort of clothing, even in the coldest weather, and had left his tribe only once since he began his self-imposed sentence. He was supplied with food by his tribesmen, who considered him sacred.

Presented a Pipe

Mr. Arthur J. Robillard was Saturday night given a surprise at his home, 122 Allen street, when a number of his relatives and friends called to congratulate him on the occasion of his 45th birthday anniversary. The host of the evening was presented a handsome pipe, the presentation speech being delivered by his son, Rosario.

Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable musical program was given by Messrs. L. J. Z. Robillard and Alfred Duval and Miss Eva Boucher and others.

GREEKS HELD MEETING

And Subscribed Money for Red Cross

Associate hall was yesterday morning the scene of a very large gathering, when nearly 2000 men of the Greek colony assembled there to listen to patriotic speeches and also to receive information concerning the Balkan-Turkish trouble.

The meeting was called to order by President E. J. Houpis of the local branch of the Pan-Hellenic union, who presided and introduced the speakers. A feature of the meeting was the raising of nearly $1400 for the Red Cross organization and for poverty-stricken families due to enlistment in the event of war.

In the course of the speeches it was explained that Greece wanted only the services who had served from 1900 to 1911, and the officers who had served from 1896 to 1910, and the speakers urged less talk of a general exodus from Lowell. Attention was called to the fact that while many of the local Greeks could not go to the front, they could manifest a very practical interest in the movement against Turkey by contributing to the fund which is being raised all over the country. A collection was called and nearly $2000 in cash was rounded up, while checks completed the sum of $2000. According to the speakers, further orders from Greece only $500 local Greeks are available for service at this time. 150 have already left and within two weeks, it is stated, 250 others will be on their way.

Those who spoke yesterday were as follows: E. J. Houpis, president of the local branch of the Pan-Hellenic society; Rev. Constantine H. Demetriou, Greek church; Rev. James C. Gifford, employed as a missionary among the Greeks; Thomas J. Nounas, president of the Greek community; Dr. Demosthenes J. Generalis, Dr. George A. Demopoulos and Dr. John C. Gatsopoulos. A paper which was circulated in the Greek district last night to the effect that the local Greek community received a telegram from Greece informing them that the latter country had declared war to Turkey, and that more volunteers would be needed, is false.

The undersigned, employs this means of expressing his sincere heartfelt thanks to all many neighbors and friends for the beautiful floral offerings and expressions of sympathy which he received during the last 24 hours, and at the time of the death of his beloved wife, Mrs. Sarah M. Demetriou, and all to be deeply grateful and shall ever bear in mind their thoughtful favors. Signed, Berton H. Elms.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House
The M. T. L. Bachelor Girls gave a delightful concert at the Opera House yesterday afternoon and last night to audiences of fair size. The program was a well arranged affair and decidedly well given. The solo work of the several young ladies was especially commendable and richly deserved the generous recognition accorded them. In connection with the concert a series of excellent motion picture plays were given that added much to the general enjoyment of the audience.

LIBERATI AND HIS BAND
The Opera House management announces that arrangements have been made for the appearance here for two performances of Liberati's concert band, the grand opera singers. The date is Sunday, Oct. 20th, and the appearance of this splendid organization will be one of the musical treats of the current season. Among the soloists to be heard with this fine band will be Mlle. Speranza Liberati, Mlle. Katherine Blum, Mlle. Gubini and Mlle. Brannon. Liberati is to be the attraction at the Boston electrical show and will come here directly from Boston. Seats for both performances go on sale Monday.

MAHE, BERNHARDT
A return engagement of the photoplay, "Queen Elizabeth," with Madame Bernhardt in the title role, will be played at the Opera House next week. One of the most interesting periods in the life of Queen Elizabeth has been depicted on the motion picture film, and Mlle. Sarah Bernhardt is the stellar attraction of the three-reel subject. The great French actress has become the sensation of the motion picture pictures, and her latest appearance before the camera will be shown in America under the auspices of the newly formed Famous Players film company.

PAUL MARCEL
Paul Marcel and his company come to the Opera House, Oct. 23, in the three act comedy drama, "L'Abbe Constant," the play of the French comedians, and it is said to be the best of this successful dramatist. It brims with comedy, overflows with a charming love interest, and is a play that in every way is worthy of the best efforts of these excellent artists.

Keith's Theatre
Charles Bowser and a splendid company will present for the first time in this city the little drama, "The Watch," at the Keith Theatre, today. Mr. Bowser is a player of far-reaching reputation and his vehicle is in keeping with his talents. The little play is the main member of the company and the company will offer their acrobatic pantomime comedy, "Mori & Skunk," are novelty jugglers and will give with their "Liberati" stories and songs will be a beautiful surprise. Charles and Mlle. Jeanette offer a pretty little skit. Box office opens 25.

Merrimack Square Theatre
Once again the very best of vaudeville and photo-plays marks the weekly offering at the Merrimack Square Theatre. The management has gathered together a bill of unusual excellence including The Tumbler Players in one of their very best presentations, a complete miniature musical comedy entitled "School Days." The act will be staged with all the elaborate and care of former presentations and should share with the biggest and best successes scored by this popular organization. Other acts are Malcombe, the eccentric juggler; Steve White, a clever monologist; and The Marshalls, a cracker-jack colored team who sing and dance to the "corners" taste. The pictures will also be new and selected from a large list of the best and will undoubtedly be an interesting as ever. See this week's bill for a two and one-half hours of pure enjoyment.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

is but to be expected. Certainly the piece richly deserves it. The management has decided to put on an extra matinee Wednesday afternoon, starting next week, so that hereafter three matinees will be given weekly on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, the prices being 10, 25 and 35 cents. Box office telephone 811.

Academy of Music
The program for the first three days at the Academy is an exceptionally good one. "The Zany" is a sensational aerial stunts are sure to please you. MacDonald & Taravato will give a high class singing and change act. W. E. Browning the man with 50 pictures are always good. Manager Church is installing a new machine which will show the best and largest pictures in this city. Tuesday night is "Arab men" and Wednesday night is the new show. Thursday night is a talent night and a number of local stars will appear in conjunction with the regular program. Saturday is the "big night." Same prices, 10, 25 and 35 cents.

THE MEXICAN PEOPLE

May be Ruled by Dictator
Says Madero

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—The Mexican people must be prepared to be governed by a dictator "who will rule by the sword" if they fail to support the present administration, according to President Madero.

The statement was made in a speech at a banquet at which the guests were congressmen and politicians in private life. The banqueters retired with only an indistinct idea of just what it was the president had meant and since then the public has generally done much guessing as to his real meaning.

When Madero was spreading the doctrine of equality and democracy, there were few who would have believed there was the making of a despotic dictator in him. Since then, however, by his invocation of the law of suspension of constitutional guarantees, he has displayed some of the signs of a successful "Iron Man." Many have suggested that President Madero was warning them that he himself would be the one to "rule by the sword."

"Long ago," said the president, "when I first began my work, I decided that the will of the people was the will of God. This will must be respected, and I consider it my duty to see that it is. The present government has fulfilled its promises, and if the government freely elected by the people cannot sustain itself it will be proof that the Mexican people are incapable of democracy. It would then be necessary to elect a dictator who will govern by the sword."

The president also bitterly assailed the press, an institution for whose untrammelled liberty he fought. "The portion of the press which has survived," said the president, "is in its majority a relic of the old regime. It is not a party to the revolution, but it is a party to the present administration, and it will refuse to believe it now."

President Madero Worried

How much reliance the executive can place upon the support of congress this fall and winter is not known. That President Madero became worried during the first days of the session was evident. It had appeared that the government party, or the progressives, had the control of the chamber when that body was gathered at the capital, but not a week had passed when it became apparent that the chamber had been split into many factions, giving no party the control. Worse still, men who had been elected by the votes of one party solemnly announced their own political views as different from that of their constituents and lined up with one of the many factions.

All that became certain early in the session was that there was a strong group who declared their support of the administration "so long as they approved of the government's measures."

The conversation most frequently heard in the lobby was that Congress now was going to conduct the affairs of the country; that congress would give instructions to the president rather than receive them."

Radical Changes Made

Adversity had resulted in an alteration of the personnel of Pascual Orozco's immediate following. The rough holding of the guerrilla warfare, made necessary by the campaign of General Huerta and by the efficiency of the American authorities in preventing the transportation of arms and ammunition, had not added to a number of the more famous rebels, and they have disappeared from Orozco's army.

One of the first to go was Gonzalo Rodriguez, a polished product of the old regime, who had charge of the treasury of the revolution. He was one of those captured by Huerta at Ojinaga when the father of the rebel leader was taken in custody.

Others who for various reasons have left the service of the rebel chief voluntarily include Alfonso Castaneda, chief of staff, Miguel Quiroga, and Jose Serna. These three left together and established their temporary homes in Mexico. Castaneda and Serna had been in the regular army, the latter at one time a paymaster general. Quiroga is a resident of San Antonio, Texas, though his place of birth is in Mexico. Jose Serna and Jose Casares, both colonels in the rebel establishment, are reported to have gone together to the United States. Casares was paymaster general of the rebel army. His home was at Las Cruces, N. M. Ponce was a citizen of Mexico, but the greater part of his life was spent in the United States. Two others who are out of the fight are Ricardo Gomez, Delino and David de la Fuente, both residents of the Mexican capital. Both have been tried at El Paso on the charge of con-

Springing to violate the neutrality laws and endangering the life of the nation by the sale of arms to the rebels at the battle of Villa Lopez, de la Fuente probably never will return to the field.

All these men were of the type who can wear evening clothes without appearing "dressed up." There remain in the field many of their type, but the plainer and perhaps sterner material, though at no time did the departed element show signs of less courage as long as they were in the revolution.

RAPID GROWTH

Of Commerce Between Atlantic and Pacific Coasts by Way of the Isthmus of Panama and Tehuantepec

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Commerce between the eastern and western coasts of the United States by way of the Isthmus of Panama and Tehuantepec shows a remarkable growth in recent years. Figures just made public by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce and labor show that this traffic has tripled in value in the last four years. Prior to 1907 all merchandise passing between the eastern and western coasts of the United States by way of the Isthmus utilized the Panama railway. At the beginning of 1907, however, the Tehuantepec railway, 125 miles in length, was opened across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in Southern Mexico, constructed with special facilities for transferring merchandise from vessel to railway and railway to vessel, and since that date this traffic, on both the Panama and Tehuantepec railway lines, has grown very rapidly and amounted in the fiscal year, 1912, to 125 million dollars in value, against 25 million in 1905. These figures, which include only domestic merchandise passing by way of the Isthmus between the eastern and western coasts of the United States (including, however, Porto Rico as among the eastern and Hawaii among the western ports), suggest that a still greater growth in this traffic between the eastern and western coasts is likely to develop with the opportunity for vessel shipments without transshipment at the Isthmus, which will come with the opening of the Panama canal.

The chief growth in this coast to coast traffic by way of the Isthmus has developed, as above indicated, since the opening of the Tehuantepec railway. The total value of shipments from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific coast in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1905, the first fiscal year including a full year's operation of the Tehuantepec road, was 12.4 million dollars of which over 12 million passed by way of the Tehuantepec road. By 1912 the total had grown to 125 million dollars, of which a little over 55 million was by way of Tehuantepec.

The value of merchandise passing from Pacific coast ports to Atlantic coast ports by way of the Isthmus was, in the fiscal year 1908, 15.4 million dollars, of which about 15.3 million passed by way of the Tehuantepec road. In the fiscal year 1912 this total had grown to 125 million dollars, of which a little less than 45 million crossed by the Tehuantepec line.

Practically all of the sugar sent from Hawaii to the eastern coast of the United States goes by way of Tehuantepec and forms considerably more than one-half of the eastward movement of domestic merchandise from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast by way of the Tehuantepec road; while practically all of the eastern coast bound for the Hawaiian Islands forms approximately 19 per cent. of the westward movement of domestic merchandise across the Tehuantepec road.

The character of articles forming this large traffic between the eastern and western coasts by way of the Isthmus is shown by a table issued by the Division of Statistics of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. This table shows that of the 125 million dollars' worth of merchandise passing from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific ports of the United States in July and August, 1912, iron and steel manufactures amounted to over a million dollars, sugar manufactures to nearly 2 million dollars, and the remainder made up of articles in large variety, chiefly manufactures. The merchandise from the Pacific coast destined to the Atlantic ports includes, as above indicated, sugar from the Hawaiian Islands, forming about one-half of the total of 8 million dollars during the two months ended August 31, 1912; the remainder being chiefly fruits, canned vegetables, canned salmon, wool, sugar, ore, and wines.

LIVELY BLAZE BROKE OUT

In a Saloon in Market Street.

What threatened to be a dangerous fire broke out on the third story of Thomas H. Fugate's saloon and restaurant at 17-19 Market street about 5:30 o'clock Friday night and but for the prompt arrival and efficient work of the fire department considerable damage might have been done.

The fire started in a pot of grease used to fry cakes for the restaurant and when discovered the flames were shooting to the ceiling of the room and the reflection through the window gave people in Market street the impression that the interior of the place was like a roaring furnace.

An alarm from box 12 was sounded and the department was soon on the scene. The protective company hurried up the stairs with a chemical line, but upon seeing that the fire was in a pot of fat they realized that the chemical was useless and they rushed to the lower room where they secured axes and throwing them on the blaze succeeded in extinguishing it. The damage was not very great, although the ceiling was ruined, walls scorched and furniture covered with grease.

The contents of the building was insured through the agency of Collins & Heron. P. C. Church holds the insurance on the building.

BEDIENT'S REMARKABLE PITCHING

Against Mighty Mathewson Enabled Red Sox to Defeat Giants Saturday

(By Sporting Editor of The Sun.)

In the presence of the largest crowd of fans that ever attended a game of baseball at Boston, the Red Sox won from the New York Giants in the best game of the series Saturday afternoon, the score being 2 to 1. The game was played in fast time, too, and the multitude of people emerged from Fenway park well satisfied that the team piloted by Jake Stahl is the one that will have the honor of being captioned "World Champions."

By winning yesterday's contest the series now stands 2 to 1 in favor of the team representing the capital of our good old Bay State.

The result of the game was a source of great pleasure to all Red Sox admirers, but was particularly pleasing to the many Lowell people who were numbered among the large throngs, inasmuch as the important performer in the game is a graduate from the little old New England league. This gentleman, whose name is now honored by all fans, is Hugh Bedient. He pitched a remarkable game, giving the best exhibition of pitching even in the present championship series.

Bedient was born at Milford, N. Y., Oct. 23, 1882. He started his professional baseball career with Fall River in the New England league in 1910. He finished the season with the record of 12 "wins" and 6 "losses." At the end of the season he was drafted by the Red Sox. He was taken on the California training trip in 1911, but was sent to Providence to acquire a little more experience. He remained there during the 1911 season and won 5 games and lost 11. The Sox recalled him at the close of the season, and this year he has greatly helped the Sox land the 1912 pennant.

Bedient's work was especially remarkable, owing to the fact that he was pitched against the veteran, Christy Mathewson, who also pitched a wonderful game. Bedient allowed three hits and three runs, and a total of six runs, strength and endurance were opposed by craft, experience and cunning, and once again work was saved.

Boston scored the victory that won the game in the third inning, while the Giants' lone tally came in the seventh inning and the three runs were all the result of the contest, as in all other sessions the remarkable pitching of Bedient and Mathewson held the counting station sacred.

Bedient Wild at Start

Young Bedient was wild in the opening sessions, but his teammates realizing that their pitcher was nervous worked hard to hold their opponents in check. In the first, second and third innings he issued three passes and allowed one hit, this by Matty. He then settled down and thereafter gave a wonderful exhibition.

In the fourth inning he allowed the Giants a trio of hits, one of these being Merkle's double to the left field bleachers in the seventh, which resulted in the "Grand Slam." The New York first baseman, after reaching third, scoring when Gardner fumbled. Pinch hitter McEwen's blow to the third corner. Gardner's error was the only slipup made by the Red Sox. Before the seventh and after the "lucky" session, Bedient never in serious danger. In the game only three McGraws reached second and one third, this being Merkle, who tallied.

Matty Also Got Bad Start

Bedient started badly and so did Matty. Bedient pitched wonderfully, so did Matty. Bedient pitched three innings to settle down and in both Matty the same period to get on his feet.

It was the third inning that defeated the Giants and shattered Matty's ambitions, for it was here that the seats of Hooper, Yerkes and Speaker resulted in the two runs that sent Matty back to New York. Bedient pitched with the admiration of all who saw his exhibition of "backing back" and holding his opponents well in hand, anticipating that his teammates would come across with the blow to enable him to turn the tide. His last outburst failed to do so, and without his last "Big Six" was forced to take the court. After the spectators had Matty put everything he had on the ball and not a Red Soxer even saw first base. He appeared to grow stronger as the game continued, and it is hard to imagine what would have happened had Matty's teammates held the score. This, however, the Sox found against and with Bedient's shots being unsoundable and the entire Boston team playing like heads, Matty's chances faded away.

Hooper and Yerkes

Though Bedient and Matty pitched brilliantly, neither could expect to win without the batting assistance of the other members of their respective outfits. The batting assistance was received by Bedient, for in the former's third, when Hooper and Yerkes batted out three hits, followed by Doyle's error of Speaker's slide, the tally that spelled victory was accumulated.

In the first and second innings, despite the fact that the Sox got to Matty's outfields for three hits he stalled them away from the plate.

Hooper was the first batter up. In the opening inning he singled and Matty took considerable time before he threw him the first ball on his second trip to the plate. The engine, Christy, warmed up and shot it over the park. Hooper batted it by Herzog with terrific speed. Down to the corner of the park it went and when it was fielded into the diamond the speedy Hooper was on third.

Yerkes then stepped to the plate and with the vast multitude yelling for a hit and the bands playing the ever popular Boston tune, "Fessie," Matty shot another one across and again it soared to the outfield with Hooper scoring and "Steve" continuing to third. Such an outburst of enthusiasm! Well, the like was never heard before. The applause continued as Speaker stepped to the station. McGraw sent his utility twirler down to the corner to warm up, and Matty stood in the box patting the heads of the excited multitude unabated.

Cent Doyle played in close, ready to make a play to the plate. Doyle had Speaker well sized up, for the Boston centre fielder shot one that Larry missed, the ball going to right field, while Yerkes scored. Speaker tried to reach second, but went out. Murray to Fletcher, on a beautiful throw by the former. After this play not a Red Soxer reached first base. Matty tightening up, and thereafter giving a magnificent exhibition of pitching.

Bedient continued to pitch with great confidence after his team made the tally, and though Merkle's hit and Gardner's error allowed the Giants a run, he held control of the situation at all other times.

HYLAN IS THE CHAMPION

He Won Title in Vesper Club Tournament

John B. Hyland won the club championship Saturday by defeating T. T. Clark in the final round. Hyland is without a doubt one of the best golfers in New England. He is prominently connected with the Brookline Country club as well as the Vesper Country club and held the club championships of both clubs. Hyland secured the club championship in 1909 at the Brookline Country club and won the bogey handicap at the same club in 1906. There was great rivalry in the contest for the club championship, all the star golfers of the clubs competing.

The players entering the contest were: R. W. Gleason, W. G. Eaton, T. T. Clark, A. H. Morton, A. D. Butterfield, L. H. Sherman, H. J. Corwin, Frank Stuart, Thomas Nesmith, Sr., A. H. Sweet, John B. Hyland, R. A. Wood, J. E. Keyes, J. P. Talbot, M. Guilline.

Three rounds were played before the final in the first round, A. D. Butterfield defeated L. H. Sherman, R. A. Wood defeated R. W. Gleason, A. H. Sweet defeated J. P. Talbot, J. Whittier defeated Frank Stuart, H. J. Corwin defeated T. Nesmith, Sr., J. B. Hyland defeated A. H. Morton, W. G. Eaton defeated J. E. Keyes and T. T. Clark defeated M. Guilline.

In the second round R. A. Wood defeated A. H. Sweet, J. B. Hyland defeated A. D. Butterfield, J. K. Whittier defeated H. J. Corwin and T. T. Clark defeated W. G. Eaton.

In the semi-finals, J. B. Hyland defeated J. K. Whittier, T. T. Clark defeated R. A. Wood.

The open tournament at Long Meadow Saturday was postponed on account of the disagreeable weather. It was to be an 18-hole match, with medal handicap play.

The greens committee was scheduled to play the tournament committee at Mr. Pleasant Saturday but on account of the weather the match was postponed.

TEXTILE ELEVEN

Was Defeated by the Lawrence Academy Team by a Score of 3 to 0 Saturday

The Lowell Textile school football team was defeated by Lawrence academy Saturday afternoon. The game was the first game that the locals had played this season and the members of the eleven did not appear to be in very good condition. There is good timber in the lineup and it is expected that within a week or two the boys will get into the running and play better than they did on Saturday.

The lineup of the teams was as follows: Lowell Textile school: McGovern, Davenport, Carlson, Ig, Pillsbury, C. Fisher, Adams, R. Rodgers, Casey, H. Crawford, R. Lawson, and Murray.

Lawrence academy: Palmer, Le, Cameron, D. Dunsberg, G. Williams, C. Booth, R. Davis, R. Ashmore, R. Lane, H. Hamilton, R. Burckmeyer, R. and Burke.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Will be in Full Swing This Week

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The political campaign in Massachusetts will swing into its full stride before the close of the present week. The democratic, progressive and republican candidates for governor with other aspirants for public office have decided to resume activity on the stump.

Charles S. Bird, the progressive leader in the state, has been campaigning for several weeks, and Joseph Walker, who heads the republican ticket, began a tour of the state within a few hours after the primaries of Sept. 24th.

The democratic campaign has been slow in getting started. Gov. Eugene N. Foss, candidate for a third term, has arranged to take the stump, assisted by several speakers from out of the state.

The prohibitionists also plan to show some activity. The socialists are being assisted by Prof. Ellen Hayes of Wellesley college, their candidate for secretary of state, and the first woman in Massachusetts to seek that office. Prof. Hayes has agreed to make a number of addresses.

Cubs Win From White Sox

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The Chicago National league club defeated the local club of the American league, 4 to 2 in yesterday's game of the series, which is to decide the city championship. This is the second victory for the Nationals. Two games resulted in a tie.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Walsh and Reubach. Walsh allowed seven hits, two of which were doubles and one a home run, while Reubach was touched for eight, four of which were doubles.

The official attendance as announced by the national commission was 26,252, and the total receipts $21,167. Of this amount the national commission will receive $21,170, each club $381,546 and $11,446.78 goes to the players.

School Teachers' Sessions

At a recent meeting of the school committee it was voted to allow teachers to leave their work sufficiently early to attend the Tuesday afternoon sessions at the State Normal school, from October 15 to December 3, inclusive. The subjects and time are as follows:

Psychology, 4.30 to 5.15; Phys., 3.45 to 4.30; 4.30 to 5.15; Music, 3.45 to 4.30; English, 3.15 to 3.30, 4.30 to 5.15; Gardening, 3.15 to 4.30, 4.30 to 5.15; Writing, 3.15 to 4.30, 4.30 to 5.15.

Teachers may register for not more than two subjects.

No transfers can be made without consulting the principal.

FIVE MEN WERE RESCUED

Taken Off in Breeches Buoy

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 14.—There seemed little prospect yesterday of saving the 21-ton New York steamer John B. Dallas, which ran ashore during a southwesterly gale Saturday night, two miles east of Quonochontaug lifesaving station.

The vessel was loaded with stove coal, from New York to Block Island, and the pounding she received in the choppy seas opened her seams. She was run ashore to prevent her foundering after Capt. Buckman and his crew of three had exhausted themselves in trying to save her.

All the crew and a passenger, White Peterson of New London, were taken off in the breeches buoy by the Quonochontaug lifesavers. Within two hours after the vessel was first sighted in the breakers by a surfman, the lifesavers had a line across her. They had to take their apparatus two miles along the beach.

It is believed part of the coal can be saved, but though the vessel was in an easy position last night, it is believed she was too badly strained to be saved.

WAVE OF PATRIOTISM

Immense Demonstration in Lawrence Saturday

LAWRENCE, Oct. 14.—In the most magnificent, most inspiring and unquestionably the largest and grandest parade that Lawrence has ever seen, a pageant which for its origin and purpose was probably without a parallel, and a procession which was unique in its character, about 30,000 men, women and children residing in this city marched the streets here Columbus day, participating in one of the most impressive patriotic demonstrations never before in the entire country to show honor, respect and loyalty to the stars and stripes and at the same time to publicly exhibit a protest against the red flag surreptitious outrage conducted under the auspices of the I. W. W. here Sunday, Sept. 22.

Unfavorable weather conditions, wet and muddy streets failed to dampen the order and patriotic enthusiasm of the marchers. A slight mist, later becoming heavier, fell during the parade, but it was not instrumental in any way in interfering with the original plans made, and the function, in its every detail, was carried out just as gloriously, just as jubilantly and just as successfully as if Old Sol had been resplendent in all his glory. But old Jupiter Pluvius made it a little uncomfortable.

While the number in may have been of greater magnitude had the streets been dry and had the sun shone brightly and warmly, yet the august and magnificent assemblage that turned out surpassed all expectations. By a conservative count, it was generally figured there were about 30,000 in line. Some estimates varied from 25,000 to 35,000. At any rate, there were easily over 30,000. It is assumed that if the weather were propitious and the streets in good condition to march, nearly 40,000 would have united to show honor and veneration for "Old Glory."

Due to the excellent preparations made under the supervision of President General Donovan, chief marshal, the procession moved promptly at 9 o'clock. Many organizations, some of whose members were dilatory in reporting on account of the belief that there would be a postponement, arrived at their allotted places later than they were scheduled, but all were in line before the order to "march" was given or before the division affected was due to swing into line.

General Donovan's military training and experience added to his in arranging every detail and everything was conducted so smoothly and harmoniously that he was showered with commendations for the able and laudatory manner in which he handled the situation.

White Sox vs. Cubs

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Back in Conkey park the White Sox were determined today to stop the onrush of the Cubs toward the title of the city championship. The Cubs' men were encouraged by their two successive victories, but just as determined to bring victory to their club.

SEVERAL WERE INJURED

With Freight Cars

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 14.—Several passengers were more or less seriously hurt by being thrown against the car seats when a passenger train bound in from Ansonia over the Derby branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad collided with some freight cars on a trestle over the West river meadows in Allentown this morning. The freight cars having engine which was returning to pull them off when the passenger engine ploughed into them. Both engines and three cars of the freight train were derailed. The engineer and driver of the passenger train were among the injured.

SEVERAL BAD ACCIDENTS

Treated at Emergency Hospital Today

George Sentry of Linden court, aged 17 years, employed by Martin Mack, received painful injuries when he was kicked by a horse he was feeding. Several small bones in the left hand were broken while two fingers of the same hand were badly crushed.

William Conley, aged 15 years, residing at 139 West 1 street, got his left index finger caught on a foot press while at his work at the Ideal Comb company. The member was badly mutilated.

Claudia Lawrence, residing at 145 Corham street, got her left thumb caught in a loom at the Appleton Manufacturing company, where she is employed, and received bad cuts on the tip of the finger. All these cases were treated at the Emergency hospital.

B.&M. FREIGHT HANDLERS

BOSTON, Oct. 14. B. & M. Freight Handlers' union, 5572, yesterday decided to call a meeting of the wage committee for Wednesday night, at which a petition for a $2.50 a day wage will be drawn up to be presented to the management of the road, and unless granted the union will try to force matters.

ANNUAL REUNION

Of Massachusetts Association of Ex-Prisoners of War To Be Held at Milford

The Massachusetts Association of Union Ex-Prisoners of War will hold its thirty-seventh annual reunion at Milford, Mass., next Wednesday, October 16. The ex-prisoners will be the guests of Major E. F. Fletcher, Woman's Relief Corps No. 72. The notices sent out to the members of the association read as follows: "The ladies of Milford intend giving us a royal good time on the 16th, and it is desirable that all comrades who can possibly do so take the 9 a. m. train. Trains for Milford leave the South station, Boston, at 8 and 10.40 a. m. and can also be reached by electric in two and one-half hours from Park square, Boston."

At the top of the right hand corner of the sheet containing the notice is a copy of the famous order issued by Brig. Gen. John H. Winder in 1864. It reads as follows: Headquarters Military Prison, Andersonville, Ga., July 27, 1864. The officers, on duty and in charge of the battery of Florida Artillery at the time, will, upon receiving notice that the enemy has approached within seven miles of this post, OPEN UPON THE SPOCKADE WITH GRAPE SHOT, without reference to the situation beyond these lines of defence.

A BRANCH LIBRARY

Is to Be Established in Harmony Hall Under the Auspices of St. Mary's Parish

The residents of Collinsville are bound to have a library in their end of the town, despite the action of the recent special town meeting, when the order asking for a loan of $500 for the establishment of a branch library in Harmony hall was defeated. Within a month it is expected an up-to-date library will be opened in Harmony hall under the auspices of St. Mary's parish.

Steps have already been taken for the establishment of the library and the book cases have been ordered. A large number of volumes have been donated by friends in Boston, Lowell and Braintree, and the new library will be known as St. Mary's library.

The second in a series of whists which is being given for the St. Mary's church fund, will be held in Harmony hall on Thursday evening. The affair is being organized by Mrs. John McShen and the following program will be rendered: Overture. Miss Beata Johnson, reading, Miss Belle Mooney; short reading, Miss Mary Gorman; violin selection accompanied on the piano by Miss Margaret Kiernan, Miss Catherine Burke; reading, Miss Bessie Carroll of this city; piano selection, Miss Eulalia Donlon; sketch, John Pomeroy; vocal selection, Miss Margaret Kennedy; solo, Miss Sarah Silk; reading, Mrs. John McShen.

THAT $35,000 ORDER DISCUSSED

Commissioners Say That Mr Brown Has Money to Do Paving Work

That $35,000 order presented by Alderman Brown and turned down by the municipal council at its meeting last Tuesday is still being very widely discussed. There are those who do not understand why the council didn't vote for the order and while the mayor and Aldermen Cummings and Connolly refuse to discuss the order, "officially" they give one to understand that the reason they didn't vote for the order was because of the fact that it was a call for more money for permanent improvements and that Mr. Brown has money at his disposal for paving and other work if he wants to go to it. The sum of $24,000 was appropriated for the paving of Church street from Central street to Concord street and the Job has not yet been touched. Alderman Brown has claimed that the water department was in the way in Church street, but Alderman Barrett claims that at no time has the water department occupied twenty-five per cent of the street and that at no time was there anything to interfere with the street department's work in Church street from Lawrence street to Concord street.

Legality of the Order

It was stated that the order to borrow $35,000 was not legally drawn and Alderman Brown says if that was the case it was up to the city solicitor. "I told the city solicitor what I wanted," Continued to Last Page

THE STATE HIGHWAY

Work on the New Road Progressing

Work on the new state highway between Lowell and Methuen is progressing rapidly and the men are now ready to lay the foundation on one part of the road covering a distance of about 400 feet. The road has been plowed from the car shed in First street to Haverhill street in Elmira. There are about 50 men employed on the job and those in charge expect to have the road complete before the snow flies.

A little trouble occurred on the job this morning, when about 25 men refused to work on a nine hour schedule. There was a little misunderstanding as the men who are employed by a contractor thought they were working for the state and were of the belief that eight hours constituted a day's work. They went to the man in charge this morning and told him they could not work unless they were allowed to quit after eight hours' work. They also wanted the same wages, that is $2 per day. They were informed that the contractors, J. J. Wagenbach & Son were running the job and that they could not afford to grant the request. Seventeen of the men returned to work, while three refused, the latter being later discharged.

MATRIMONIAL

St. Margaret's church was this morning the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Mr. John Cunningham and Miss Mary E. Cassidy, two well known young people of this city, were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 10 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Calligan. The happy couple were attended by Mr. Thomas Cunningham, brother of the bridegroom, and Miss Mabel Cassidy, sister of the bride, who acted as best man and bridesmaid respectively. The bride was handsomely attired in a costume of white premarriage, while the bridesmaid wore a fitting costume of blue silk. The close of the mass the bride party repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Patrick Cassidy, 44 B street, where a dainty wedding dinner was served followed by a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, who were the recipients of many costly gifts, left on the 1.40 o'clock train for Chicago. They will return by way of Niagara Falls and will be at home to their friends in three weeks at 50 B street. Among those who were present at the wedding festivities were a brother of the bridegroom, Edward Cunningham of Washington, D. C., Mrs. J. O'Neill of New York, and friends from Cambridge and Hudson.

PAGEAU-GINGRAS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning, when Mr. Alvin Pageau of Concord, N. # "BRIDGIE" WEBBER TESTIFIES

He Tells of the Arrangements Made for the Murder of Rosenthal

NEW YORK, October 14.—"Bridgie" Webber, whose gambling rooms on 42nd street were the rendezvous of the alleged murderers of Herman Rosenthal, took the witness stand today at the trial of Police Lieutenant Becker and swore that Becker had said that on the night of the murder he had been looking for Rosenthal to "take a shot at him" himself. Becker told him, he said, that while passing the hotel Cadillac in an automobile about half an hour before the murder he had ordered the chauffeur to slow down so that "if I saw Rosenthal up against a window I would have taken a shot at him myself."

Webber corroborated in all important details the story of the murder as told by "Bald Jack" Rose on Saturday. After his rest over Sunday Becker appeared somewhat refreshed when he came into court today. As heretofore, his wife sat near him. The jury, too, had a quiet Sunday and a refreshing automobile ride in order to put them in fit condition for the protracted sessions demanded by Justice Goff.

W. R. Sheehan, secretary to Commissioner Waldo, was the first witness to take the stand. Sheehan, who is a former newspaper man, was asked to identify his signature on a document handed to him by Asst. Dist. Atty. Moss. The document was a communication addressed to Becker and attached thereto were letters identified by the witness as having been written by Becker. Sheehan said that he had signed the document at the direction of Commissioner Waldo.

"Did you ever talk to Becker about the matters mentioned in these communications?" asked Moss.

"No, sir." On the ground that the commissioner's secretary had given only his opinion as to the authenticity of Becker's signature, J. W. Hart of counsel for the defense objected to the introduction of the papers in evidence. Justice Goff, after hearing Sheehan's opinion, refused to allow the papers to be admitted and Sheehan was excused.

"Bridgie" Webber followed Sheehan on the stand. "Bridgie" said his real name was "Louis" and admitted that he was a gambler. He said, and Jack Rose for the same time. Becker, he had known for two years.

"Where did you first meet Becker?" asked Mr. Moss.

"In Jack Rose's place," said Webber.

"Where did you next meet him?"

"In front of my poker rooms." "Did you ever have a conversation with him?"

"Yes. He used to come to my place often," said Webber.

"Did you ever have conversation with Becker about Rosenthal?"

"Yes, with Harry Vallon and Jack Rose the latter part of June at 124th street and Seventh avenue. Becker said: 'The — of a — is trying to do me in every way. He is trying to see Waldo, the commissioner, and now he's going to get Whitman. That has got to be stopped,' said Becker. 'It's got to be stopped before he gets to Whitman. I said: 'Charles, that's a pretty dangerous thing to do, to murder a man.' That's all right," said Becker, "he's got to be stopped."

"Bridgie" told of a subsequent meeting with Becker at the Union Square hotel.

"What are you doing about —?" Rosenthal? Becker said to me. "He's doing me; he's got to be stopped."

"I said: 'Charles, he's going to be taken care of. You're liable to see it in the papers any day.'"

The witness then told of meeting Rose and telling him of Becker's insistence that the "job" be done. Webber said that Rose had agreed to get the four gunmen together at his poker rooms on the night of July 15. On that night he (Webber) saw Becker and Jack Sullivan at a prize fight, left them and went to his poker rooms.

"Lefty Louie, Jack Rose, Harry Vallon, Gyp the Blood, Sam Scheppe and Dan Frank appeared on the scene," Webber said. "Rose asked me if I knew where Rosenthal was," he continued. "I went to the Metropole and saw Rosenthal there. I came back to my place and said: 'Rosenthal was in the Metropole.' Then they all got up but Rose and went out. I stayed there for five minutes and then went out."

Webber said he was not at the scene of the murder until after Rosenthal had been shot.

"I saw his body on the sidewalk," said the witness, after describing his movements after he had left his poker rooms with Jack Rose and Jack Sullivan.

"I congratulate you, Jack, a good job," said Becker, the witness testified. "This is terrible, Charles," said Rose, "you've got the number of the machine. Now mind said Becker, 'I'll take care of you and the gang.'"

The witness added that he heard Becker say at that time: "I just seen him (Rosenthal) laying there in the police station and I'd like to have taken any knife and cut his tongue out as a warning to further squealers."

"Then Becker said," the witness continued, "I passed the Cadillac about 1.30 in my machine and told the chauffeur to go slow, so that if I seen that — Rosenthal up against the wall there I could have taken a shot at him."

After Webber had corroborated Rose's story as to paying him $1000 to get the murder crew out of town, the witness was turned over to the defense.

"Were you ever ratted?" asked John McIntyre, chief counsel for Becker.

"Yes, last August," the witness said.

The witness admitted he had been a gambler all his life. In reply to questions he said he ran an opium joint at number 3 Pell street for about two years.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Frank P. McCartin, a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, Knights of Equity and also of the Y. M. C. I. of this city, and Miss Margaret A. Walsh, also of Lowell, were married in the chapel of the Immaculate Conception church this morning at 4 o'clock.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Tighe, and Brother James McCartin of Tewksbury, a brother of the bridegroom, assisted. Miss Bella Walsh, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid and Mr. William Harrington acted as best man.

The bride was very becomingly gowned in white satin trimmed with duchess lace and she carried American beauty roses. The bridesmaid wore blue silk and carried white roses.

There were present a large number of relatives and friends of the couple.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was given to the gathering at the home of the bridegroom's mother on Pleasant street. The young couple received many costly and beautiful gifts. They departed on a honeymoon trip to St. John, P. Q., and after Nov. 1 will reside at 15 Allen street, where they will be at home to friends. They received the hearty wishes of all for prosperity and happiness.

Larceny Charged

Frank Sheehan was arrested by Inspector McLoughrey and booked at the station for the larceny of a suit of clothes on John street.

Wrist Fractured

The ambulance was called to the Tremont and Suffolk mills this afternoon. Patrick Sexton of Ardell street had a fractured wrist and was taken to the Lowell General hospital.

Stock Brokers Fall

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The failure of the stock brokerage firm of Stephen R. Dow & Co., recently for more than half a million dollars was called to the attention of the grand jury today by the district attorney's office. The directors of the Franklin Mining Co., of which Stephen R. Dow had been president, gave testimony.

District Attorney Pelletier announced last week that the grand jury would not only investigate the Dow failure, but would inquire into the brokerage system in Boston.

Many of them were armed. Soon a riot was in progress, the guards battling desperately to save their own lives and prevent the escape of every convict in the institution. The gates remained locked and no definite word came out early last night regarding events within.

Persons coming into town from the south bring stories of a reign of terror in the country districts. Riders have been sent to the ranches for a radius of several miles, warning the owners to be prepared to defend their property. Several parties who went south yesterday on horseback or in carriages returned last night afoot, their horses having been stolen by the convicts.

May Have Killed Guards

The escapes of Saturday and yesterday appear to be the result of a general plot inside the prison.

It is not known how the prisoners who made their break for liberty yesterday afternoon, got the guns with which they were well supplied when they dashed from the gates.

It is possible, the local officers believe, that they killed a number of guards, after overpowering the cell-house keeper and took away their weapons. Another theory is that the guns were smuggled into the prison by friends of the men who escaped Saturday.

Warden Alston has been in the hills since Saturday and has not been located, although couriers were sent out last night to tell him of the events of the day. A deputy warden said last night he did not know the exact number of the men who escaped.

It is believed the ring-leaders in the delivery are some of the men who several days ago lynched inside the prison walls Frank Walfall, a negro, who had attracted an aged woman.

Several weeks ago several of the most desperate characters in the prison had their sentences cut down for aiding in putting out a fire in one of the buildings, thereby saving the penitentiary from probable destruction.

MAYOR WAS ARRESTED

But He Was Released After Short Time

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—Mayor Henry T. Hunt was arrested at the city hall on two warrants charging that when he was county prosecutor he committed a felony by accepting settlements of claims against breweries. The complainant is A. H. Tarvin, secretary of the Owl Publishing company, which publishes a small weekly paper the editor of which was recently arrested at the mayor's instance on a charge of selling scurrilous publications to minors. Mayor Hunt went to the court of Magistrate Hohenstein, who issued the warrants, but no complainant appeared, and the case was dismissed. The mayor afterward explained that while he was prosecuting the case the settlements were made with breweries to save money for the county.

Lowell High School and Lawrence High School

Football Elevens Played an Exciting Game Saturday

LOWELL HIGH MAKING A LINE PLUNGE IN SATURDAY'S GAME WITH LAWRENCE HIGH.

A recitation of the final score, 0 to 0, was clean and as fast as could be expected of the football game last Saturday afternoon between the high school elevens of Lowell and Lawrence is the briefest and most concise story which can possibly be told of that great exhibition which marked the resuming of athletic relations between the two schools, and it was as everybody expected, the teams were evenly matched and the game was the hardest fought contest that has been seen at Washington park thus far this season.

The poor condition of the field made fast work very difficult. Players on both elevens were enthusiastically cheered on by a large gathering of rooters from the schools of both cities, and many banners were in evidence.

The Lawrence team seemed to have the advantage of greater weight and push, who the scales at 190, was a tower of strength for the visitors, being stopped in his force plunges only by the great tackling of Captain Cawley of Lowell. Several times the goal of the local team was threatened, and in such crises as these the Lowell lineemen held strongest and forced their opponents to lose the ball on down when a touchdown seemed inevitable. The two ends, Carter and Trull, were prominent both in defensive and offensive play and their work with that of Captain Cawley was a feature of the afternoon. Every man on the team seemed to outdo himself in that game and the week ending manifested in the contest with Manchester High a short time ago have disappeared.

Quarterbacks Snyder of the local eleven and Higgins of Lawrence proved very good generals and both handled their teams in a manner that was very commendable. The game throughout

Whist Party
A delightful whist party was held at the Notre Dame de Lourdes school hall Friday evening in order to celebrate the opening of the new rectory. The affair was organized by Miss Yvonne Martin and was largely attended. Delegations from Gardes d'Honneur, Frontenac, Saints Anges, Jacques Cartier and Sacre Coeur of this city and Garde Rochambeau of Nashua, N. H., were present in their regalia. Outside of a pleasant game of whist the following program was also enjoyed to a great extent by the large audience: Piano solo, Louis Boudreau; comic song by Adelmard Desmarais; song by Joseph Lamy; piano solo, Miss Rose Desmarais, and declamation, Miss Yvonne Martin. During the evening dainty refreshments were served, and an agreeable time was spent. Among those in attendance were Rev. Leon Lamotte, O. M. I., pastor of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish; Rev. Fr. Barrette, O. M. I., and Rev. Fr. Laganiere, O. M. I.

Competitive Drill Postponed
On account of the inclement weather Saturday, the competitive drill which was to have been held on the grounds of the French American orphanage in Pawtucket street was postponed till Thanksgiving day. Several out-of-town guards made the trip to this city and they promised to return when the affair is held.

JOE WOOD AND HIS SALARY HAND
PHOTO © 1912 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—"Smoky" Joe Wood, the man who throws a ball so fast that batsmen can't see it—and throws. He lets his fielders do some—is the hero of the world's series a batter he is able to do it. This was game. Twice he has met the New York Giants, and twice he has conquered them. He has proved to be even better than his friends said, and he has showed that he has his nerves under perfect control, for nothing can show the way he grips a ball to muffle him, he uses his head as well as his arm, for he does not throw an inshoot.

A FIERCE FIGHT WITH CONVICTS

Guards Attempt to Quell Mutiny in the State Prison at Rawlins, Wyoming

RAWLINS, Wyo., Oct. 14.—A battle raged early last night in the state penitentiary. Locked inside the walls with hundreds of muzzling prisoners, a few guards fought desperately to restore order and prevent a wholesale jail delivery.

Camped outside the walls was a force of citizens heavily armed, ready to drive back the convicts if they murdered the remaining guards and made a rush through the gates. Shots and occasional shots told of desperate fighting within the walls and it was rumored that several guards and convicts were killed.

Another battle was in progress at the same time in the hills south of Rawlins, between a posse of citizens and escaped prisoners.

Two men were killed in the streets of Rawlins, one was desperately wounded and two convicts were recaptured, following the escape of from 10 to 30 prisoners yesterday afternoon. The town is in panic.

Francis telegrams were sent to Gov. Carey, now at Sheridan, imploring him to send state troops to protect the citizens. Townspeople barricaded themselves in their homes last night, or heavily armed, patrolled the streets.

The outbreak yesterday was the second within 24 hours. About 2 p. m. Saturday 20 prisoners escaped and nine were recaptured before 8 o'clock.

At 2.30 yesterday afternoon a party of desperate life-terminers overpowered the cellhouse keeper, took his keys and released their comrades from their cells. Every prisoner willing to risk a battle with the guards made a rush for the gates.

A moment later the citizens of the town heard a fusillade of shots inside the walls. A bedlam of shouts and yells echoed from the prison. A few seconds later more than a dozen men dashed down the main street armed with guns and knives.

Noting the few citizens at bay with revolvers they charged into a livery barn, holding up the proprietor and hastily throwing saddles and bridles on the horses.

A huge negro, armed with a revolver, was left as guard on the outside. Charles Strosser, a barber, had heard the commotion and came down the street with a shotgun. The negro shot him through the head, killing him instantly.

Make Dash for Hills
At the sound of the shot the convicts swarmed from the barn, some with stolen horses and some afoot. A Mexican wantonly stabbed the proprietor in the face, severely wounding him, and a few seconds later pulled out the deed with his life. Hugh Rogers, a deputy sheriff, shot him, killing him instantly.

Leaving their dead comrade the convicts made a dash for the rocky hills south of the town. A party of penitentiary guards followed in close pursuit.

THE ARMY AEROPLANES

Will Have to be Divided Into Classes

PARIS, Oct. 11.—The art of aerial warfare has advanced to such a stage that army aeroplanes will now have to be divided into different classes, in the same way as are naval vessels, in the opinion of the heads of the French army aviation corps. Light and mobile aeroplanes (called "scouts") will be used for reconnaissance and for attacking the enemy's aeroplanes. Heavy aeroplanes will have to be attached to the front to act as the eyes of the army. Just as the cavalry now has its own machine guns, so it will in future have its own aeroplanes. In the rear of the army the heavy armored aeroplanes with highpower motors will be stationed in aviation camps. These machines will be the battleships of the air, just as the first line aeroplanes will be the destroyers.

Based on his observations on the performance of the two dirigibles which took part in the recent French war manoeuvres, a French expert concludes that the dirigible in its present form is antiquated and useless. The alleged mobility of the portable balloons, he declares to be a myth. A dirigible requires 220 men to handle it, while three squadrons of aeroplanes need only 250.

The swiftness of the two dirigibles employed at the recent manoeuvres took more than ten hours to reconnoitre a radius of 250 miles, while the least rapid biplanes took only two hours and a half to scout a region of 140 miles and other aeroplanes three hours five minutes to travel about 200 miles.

Counting from the day of departure for the manoeuvres, the thirty-six army airmen who had no accident of any kind, out of the total number of forty-nine engaged in the operations, flew about 22,222 miles together. The remaining thirteen who broke down aggregated 22,221 miles. Adding the 1,384 miles flown by the eight aeroplanes of the reserve, the total distance flown by the aeroplanes engaged in the manoeuvres amounted to 23,606 miles.

Tradition Violated

A hitherto inviolable tradition in connection with the election of an "immortal" or member of the French academy, will be violated in the case of General Lyautoy, the successor of Henri Houssaye. Owing to his absence at the head of the French army in Morocco, he will not be able to call formally on the other thirty-nine members of the academy before his election on October 21.

Of the three candidates for the seat left vacant, two have formally withdrawn, leaving General Lyautoy as the sole candidate. That eminent soldier's inevitable election is a matter for popular rejoicing, since recent deeds in Morocco have made him a national hero.

In connection with the election somebody has unearthed from the constitution of the academy a legally enacted article which expressly forbids solicitation of votes for election, the purpose, naturally, of the thirty-nine voters. Other academicians say that the discovery of the "curious" article will render life desolate for them, as the calls of distinguished seekers after one of France's highest honors have been always delightful.

Juvenile Crime

Juvenile crime is increasing in an alarming way in France, according to the recently published statistics of the courts of justice for 1910.

Some thirty per cent of all persons accused of crime are minors. A similar tendency has been observed in England and Germany, and the question is recurring the serious thought of criminologists.

And the revelation of the tables is the remarkable preponderance of half-bred and half-blooded children, as contrasted with well-blooded and almost unblemished ones. The well-to-do families contribute about half as many children as do the totally ignorant, but it is from the class of moderately educated that all but a trifling number of murderers spring.

At present not far from half a million cases are brought before the lowest police courts in a year. It appears that criminality of a serious character has shown practically no change for the past ten years.

Crimes against property have decreased notably in number, the result, it is said, of the exceptional severity with which such matters are treated not only by judges but by juries.

The same can scarcely be said for crimes of violence against persons. French juries, in particular, being all too ready to wax sentimental over the plea of passion, temptation, and so on, invariably put forward by accused persons.

Love of Aged

Parisians have again demonstrated their love of the aged by the lively interest they have taken in the personalities of the five men to whom the emperor of Russia presented medals of the centenary of the battle of Waterloo, or Moscow.

Every one of the recipients was a veteran soldier from that conflict, the oldest being 112 years of age.

It was the same story some years ago when monuments were erected on the battlefield of Waterloo, although in that case few of the veterans were a hundred years old.

In Paris itself the discovery of a man who was who in a hundred years old, some sort of festivity in honor of one who has seen so much history made and unmade in his time. Every item about the aged person's habits is counted as of the utmost interest. Does he smoke a pipe? Does he drink white wine or red? Are vegetables his diet, and does he sleep out of doors, and have more than weekly and in cold water?

The statistics of the city show that within the walls are no less than fifteen people who have passed their hundredth birthday and forty-eight who will very soon do so. Of persons more than ninety years old there are 223, while of octogenarians the metropolis boasts 1,507. Of seventy-year-olds there is a veritable army.

POPULATION OF THE U. S.

There Are 106 Males to Every 100 Females

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 14.—The population of the United States (exclusive of Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and other noncontiguous possessions) comprised in 1910, according to the last federal census 47,332,277 males and 44,632,983 females, or 106 males to every 100 females; in 1900 there were 104 males to every 100 females. These figures are contained in a statement issued by Director Durand of the bureau of the census, department of commerce and labor, and are based upon a tabulation prepared under the direction of Mr. William C. Hunt, chief statistician for the population in the census bureau. The figures are preliminary and subject to revision.

The excess of males in the United States is mainly due to the extensive immigration, a much larger proportion of the immigrants being males than females. In the foreign-born white population there are 123.2 males to 100 females. But the native white population also has a slight excess of males, the ratio being 102.7 to 100.

In the negro population males are outnumbered by females in a ratio of 95.9 to 100. Among the Chinese in this country males outnumber females by more than 11 to 1, and among the Japanese by about 7 to 1. The Indians show a small excess of males, 103.5 to 100 females.

In most European countries females outnumber males; the number of males to 100 females according to recent censuses being 93.5 in England, 90.7 in France, 90.9 in the German empire, 96.4 in Switzerland, 99 in Italy, 97.7 in Austria, 99.1 in Hungary, and 95.5 in Russia.

The preponderance of males in the aggregate population of the United States is most marked in the Pacific and mountain divisions (far western states), with ratios in 1910 of respectively 129.5 and 127.9 males to 100 females. The proportion of males is lower in New England, the middle and only geographic division in which there is a slight excess of females over males. There are only five states in which females outnumber males, namely Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

Males increased more rapidly than females in the United States from 1900 to 1910. The former increased 21.9 per cent; females 20.1 per cent. Little change occurred in the sex ratio for the native population, but among the foreign-born white the number of males per 100 females increased from 117.1 in 1900 to 123.2 in 1910. The proportion of males increased in every state east of the Mississippi river, except in Kentucky and Tennessee, where the change was insignificant. West of the Mississippi the proportion increased in 2 states, decreased in 12, and remained unchanged in 1 state.

Of the aggregate urban population of continental United States in 1910, 21,490,181 were male and 21,127,290 female, the number of males per 100 females being 101.7. Of the aggregate rural population 25,842,096 were male and 23,515,757 female, the number of males per 100 females being 109.9. In the rural population of each division the males outnumber the females, but in the urban population of three divisions—the New England, South Atlantic, and East South Central—the females outnumber the males.

The fact that females are relatively more numerous in urban than in rural communities throughout the United States exists despite the fact that foreign-born whites—a class in which, as previously noted, males are in a majority—are largely concentrated in cities. The relative excess of females in the larger cities is generally attributed at least in part to the fact that the city as compared with the country affords more opportunities for women to find employment with a corresponding greater demand for female labor.

Of the 50 cities having over 100,000 inhabitants, there are 28 in which the males outnumber the females. In 39 of the cities the proportion of males was greater in 1910 than in 1900, and in 11 it was less. The number of males per 100 females was greatest in Seattle (126.2), and only slightly less in Portland, Ore. (121.5). Nashville shows the smallest proportion of males, with a ratio of 99.6 to 100 females. Of the 8 cities having 500,000 or more inhabitants, Baltimore has the lowest number of males per 100 females (92.4), and Cleveland the highest (106.6), but the ratio is almost as high in Chicago, where there are 106.3 males to 100 females. New York city's population is almost evenly divided by sex; in Philadelphia the females outnumber the males.

GIRL FATALLY BURNED

Little One Was Playing
With Matches

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—For the second time within a week in South Boston a child was burned yesterday as the result of playing with matches.

Little 4-year-old Romulus Valasek, 84, who died at the City Hospital last night, was the victim of yesterday's accident. She was on the back veranda of her home on the first floor of the house at 5 Ellery terrace, off Ellery street, at 12:50 yesterday afternoon. It is said that she was alone and had got possession of a card of matches which she proceeded to light.

When her clothes were ignited her 2-year-old brother found her cries and made his way upstairs to where his grandfather, John Storik, was talking with the mother. He gave the alarm, and mother and grandfather rushed to the little girl's assistance. Mr. Storik pulled a blanket from a bed and wrapped it round the child to smother the flames, being badly burned about the hands in doing so.

Capt. Connelley, Lieut. Dacey, and men of Engine 43, just around the corner, did what they could for the little girl until an ambulance arrived. Late last night, however, she succumbed to her injuries.

Stanislaus Valasek, father of the child, was at work at the time of the accident and was prostrated when he heard of it.

REV. CHARLES A. LINCOLN

Called to the Kirk Street
Church

At a meeting of the Kirk street church held Friday night, a unanimous call was extended Rev. Charles A. Lincoln, pastor of the First Congregational church in Melrose, Ill. He has preached twice in Lowell during the summer, coming east to attend his class reunion at Amherst. The pulpit of the Kirk street church has been vacant since the resignation of Rev. James E. Gray several months ago. The church will pay Mr. Lincoln $3500 a year, which is the largest salary that it has offered in recent years; will allow him to take the month of August for a vacation, and will give him a secretary.

Rev. Charles A. Lincoln is 35 years old, and is the son of a Congregational minister, now retired. He was born in New England, but as a young man lived for a time with his family in Florida, where he was a student at Rollins college, the president of which was Rev. George L. Ward, a Lowell man. Later he went to Amherst college and the Hartford Theological school. His first pastorate was at Manchester-by-the-Sea in this state. He then went to St. Louis as assistant pastor of one of the large churches and for the past three years he has been in Melrose, where he has doubled the membership of the church and otherwise had a most successful pastorate.

He is married and has a little daughter. His wife was a Hartford girl, well known socially in that city.

The committee that had the calling of a pastor reported Friday night that it had considered clergymen from every part of the country, and had written no less than a hundred letters. It is understood that the unanimous action insures the acceptance on Rev. Mr. Lincoln's part.

Notre Dame Alumnae Association

The reunion of the former pupils of Notre Dame academy will be held at the academy in Adams street, this city, on Saturday, Oct. 19. The event is an annual one and always brings forth a large number of graduates of the school. It is a popular place of education. The election of officers of the association will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The association was organized in 1892 and has since that time held its annual reunions.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY

The national association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis has appointed October 27 as Tuberculosis day in the churches, with the understanding that preachers will impress upon their congregations on that day the necessity of stopping the ravages of tuberculosis by preventive measures and by proper treatment as soon as the disease makes its appearance.

It is estimated that take remedies amounting to $15,000,000 are sold annually to people suffering from this disease. The national association divides these cures into three classes, first, devices and drugs ranging in price from ten cents to five dollars; second, the institutes conducted by doctors who claim to have a secret cure for consumption. These are the most successful of all swindlers if judged by the amount of money they extort from their patrons. The third "cure" consists of home-made remedies which are imposed upon the sufferers as certain cures if not followed long enough. These include charms, mixtures, oils, coal dust, lime dust, rattlesnake poison and other crude ingredients.

The national association holds that as yet there has been no specific for tuberculosis except fresh air, good food, and rest, taken under the direction of a competent physician.

The local crusade against the disease has practically been forgotten. For a time the people were alive to the necessity of keeping their homes absolutely clean, of removing all filthy and rubbish from the vicinity, and above all to provide for ample ventilation both by day and night. The matter of ventilation is one on which a great many people require enlightenment. The homes of the poor owing to the small rooms, the low studding and the lack of proper facilities for ventilation, seldom enjoy a breath of real fresh air. The environment as a rule is also bad so that the air enters these dwellings charged with the foul odors from stables, garbage cans, sewers or cess-pools in the vicinity. There is much need of enlightenment on this whole question in order to impress upon all the people wherein the danger lurks and how to avoid it. The modes of preventing this disease are more hygienic than medical and it would be well if the board of health adopted some means of educating the masses upon the best prevention measures.

THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE

"Something is wrong in this country, our government must be changed, the people are not getting a fair show, they are obliged to pay three prices for what they purchase; the whole system must be overhauled and reconstructed. Who will provide the remedy? It must come soon or we shall have a revolution."

This is the kind of talk heard among the people who discuss politics around the streets. It is the view of men who have not given much study to the affairs of government but who realize full well that something is wrong and that a prompt remedy is urgently demanded by public necessity. All this is true and the root of the difficulty is not so very hard to find as some suppose. Indeed it is self-evident to those who have followed the course of events during the past twenty-five years. This system that presses so hard upon the people at the present time is but the result of the republican scheme of over protection which shuts out foreign competition and then throttles domestic competition. Thus the trusts and combines of the country are enabled to control the necessities of life. They can load them up until the prices reach the highest cent the people can pay. Then if any attempt is made to relieve the stringency by foreign importation the supply held in cold storage or otherwise is let go and the foreign importer is undersold so that he is not likely to make such another attempt.

The remedy for this situation is to break the monopoly by removing the high tariff so as to restore reasonable and honest competition. This is what the democratic party proposes to do; it is what Governor Wilson advocates and what will be done by the democratic administration at Washington after March 4, 1913.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT

President Taft's increasing confidence in his chance of re-election is probably based upon the reports of his campaign manager who early in the contest astonished the country by announcing that Taft would carry enough states to elect him. At that time Roosevelt was more powerful than he is today and he appeared to be in a fair way to prevent Taft from carrying any important state.

But Roosevelt has been shown up by Archibald, Penrose and others and like another Samson he has been torn of his strength so that today it is doubtful if he will be able to take half the republican vote from Taft. The republicans leaving Taft are not going to Roosevelt, but to Wilson. That is because they have had their eyes opened by the revelations as to the boodle campaign of 1901, and the outlandish things advocated by Roosevelt such as the referendum or decisions of the supreme court and the recall of judges. Somehow the constitution and the supreme court bother Col. Roosevelt very much and hence the most radical planks of his platform are directed against them.

It is estimated that more than 10,000 republicans will support Wilson through the Wilson national progressive republican league. This is a small part of the republican vote to be cast for Wilson on election day.

SCARLET FEVER EPIDEMIC

The scarlet fever epidemic has gone so far as to become positively alarming. If the board of health does not adopt active measures in enforcing the isolation of cases, the schools may have to be shut down in certain parts of the city. If half the cases are on the route of one milkman it would be well to have him suspend business for a time. From the investigation of Dr. Simpson it appears that from the beginning, there was reason to believe that the cases originated with somebody connected with the distribution of milk through the city by one dealer. Had the board of health acted promptly and with the degree of vigilance demanded by the seriousness of the case, it might have not only checked the epidemic by perfect isolation of cases, but found their origin and had timely steps taken to stamp out the epidemic.

It is stated that American beef can be sent to England and returned to this country paying the regular tariff duty, and then sold at a reasonable price, yet at a price under that prevailing in this country today. This indicates that the beef trust is simply imposing upon the people and extorting prices that are not only outrageous. If there was any competition from abroad so much price could be maintained in this country, and hence the necessity of cutting off the tariff on meat. What is true of beef in this respect is also true of many other commodities, the prices of which are held much higher than they should be.

The patriotism of the Greeks in this country is shown in their willingness to give not only their money but their lives, if necessary, for the mother land. The illustrious history of Greece, the glory of her heroes and the power of her orators—all combine to inspire the Greeks of the present day with the valor of patriotism to defend their country and their race. It must be gratifying to any reader to find such loyalty to the fatherland even among those who have long ago emigrated in hopes of bettering their conditions.

William Jennings Bryan is authority for the statement that the state of California will go so far for Wilson. The progressive element have succeeded in shutting out Mr. Taft, but they cannot shut out Wilson. Already it is conceded even by republicans that Wilson is very likely to carry the state.

Seen and Heard

A story is told of a certain lawyer who practiced in the police courts of this city a number of years ago, says the New York Herald. He was unfortunate in obtaining business and was not only driven to use every artifice to get clients, but was compelled to accept any fee, however small. On one occasion he was retained by a young man to defend him from a charge of burglary. The evidence was insufficient to obtain a conviction and the prisoner was discharged.

"What fee did you get?" the lawyer was asked by a friend upon the dismissal of the case.

"Two dollars, a ring, a pocketknife and a comb," was the reply.

"And did you take a fee like that?" persisted the interrogator with a sneer.

"Well, it was everything the fellow had," was the apologetic explanation.

When the late Senator Taylor of Tennessee was governor of that state he was interrupted just as he sat down to luncheon at home one day by a messenger from the capitol to the effect that two men from an outside town wanted to see the governor at once.

The governor said to Sam, his negro butler, who brought in the message: "Sam, tell them I'll be right down."

"Yes, sir," said Sam.

"Sam," broke in Mrs. Taylor, "you tell them the governor will be down in half an hour—after he has finished his luncheon."

"Sam," said the governor, "say I'll be right down."

"In half an hour, Sam," said Mrs. Taylor.

"Sam," said the governor, "do you know who is governor of Tennessee?"

"Yes, sir," replied Sam; "I'll tell 'em you'll be down in half an hour."

THE THISTLE

A thistle pushed its way up through the stony ground.

The farmer said: "A scurvy has come; I'll bruise it ere it sheds its bloom!" And lo! the thistle perished and made a mortal wound.

A thistle pushed its way up through the stony ground.

The farmer said: "Tis at love's call. The field is large enough for all." Lo! when the poor unfortunate had bloomed he found

A honey-sun deep nestled in its purple heart.

So sweet 'twas kindness on the air; So sweet that butterflies drank there. Even when the blessed bloom with life was called to part

It flashed a silver shadow with whose mystic leave

The wild-rose could not hope to vie. While waiting then I saw it lie Soft shining on the breast of many an autumn flower.

It laughed on ling'ring summer's neck, with soft caress.

As softly it retired in flight, The crimson ivy caught the light, And all the highway felt the touch of tenderness.

Held an Outing

The members of Court St. Paul, C. O. P., held a well attended outing at Dan's farm, Braintree, yesterday afternoon. A dainty dinner was served and a very pleasant afternoon was spent, the program including vocal and instrumental selections, and sports among the young ones.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of the following: Arthur Layton, Paul Charbonneau, Arthur J. Robillard and Alfred Lebel.

Albert Edmund Brown of the Lowell Normal school and the Chautauque Institute at Chautauque, N. Y.

Classes every Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Arts and crafts—Mrs. Lillian Robillard, instructor. Former principal of the Evening Training school. The classes will be held every Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and will include leather, metal and jewelry work and stenciling.

These classes offer a great opportunity for any member who cares to take them, and the association officers are to be congratulated on their success in securing such competent instructors.

Classes in physical education will be held every day excepting Wednesday, and will be under the direction of Miss Frances E. Bent.

Several clubs have been formed among the girls, all having some special object.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, Mrs. C. T. O'Brien; general secretary, Miss Harriet L. Boutelle; business secretary, Miss Mary C. Field; home secretary, Miss Mary C. Field.

LIST OF THE TEACHERS

For Y. W. C. A. Courses

This Winter

The members of the Y. W. C. A. can consider themselves fortunate as the officers of the association have secured most competent instructors who will take up the practical side of their education as well as the physical side. Everything which is necessary for the education of a young lady has been secured and the members may be able to pursue these lines for a modest sum.

Miss Frances E. Bent is the director of the teaching classes.

The instructors of the classes are given in the following list:

Dressmaking—Miss Frances B. Dean, instructor. Lessons will be given every Thursday at 7:15-9:15 p. m.

Millinery—Miss Maud C. Dunstead, instructor. Lessons will be given every Thursday at 7:15-9:15 p. m.

French—Madame D. H. Laporte, instructor. Lessons will be given every Wednesday at 7:15 p. m.

Christmas gift class—Miss Grace Hadley Byam, instructor. Lessons will be given every Tuesday at 7:15 p. m.

This class will be given instruction in embroidery, fancy and needlework, stenciling and in the making of various Christmas gifts.

Cooking—The instructor for this class has not as yet been secured.

The beginners' class will take place every Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Advanced class every Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Music—Miss Helen Butler. Lessons will be given every Monday at 7:30 p. m. This class will be free of charge and open to all members.

Music—Classes in sight singing and choral practice will be given by Mr.

Albert Edmund Brown of the Lowell Normal school and the Chautauque Institute at Chautauque, N. Y.

REV. CALEB E. FISHER

Says People Should Go to Church

"Why Jones Should Go to Church" was the subject of a rather interesting sermon by Rev. Caleb E. Fisher at the First Universalist church last night. In part, he said:

"The lack of interest in the Protestant churches in this city is evident from many sources. On all sides you hear talk of combining ministers are leaving the city, and various other signs point to a very deplorable fact. The plain fact is that just about 30 per cent of the Protestant population of Lowell attend morning worship in any of the churches.

Various reasons are also advanced for this state of affairs. I have heard young men say that when they were youngsters their parents made them go to church and now they had outgrown that. The old folks were only trying to instill a habit into the growing child along with several other good ones. Go to church, some church, if only as a habit I tell you, for it's a mighty good habit for any man to get.

"The possession of an automobile is another reason advanced for the non-attendance at church. We all might be tempted, I suppose, if we owned automobiles, but I really believe that if I were the fortunate possessor of an automobile, I would at least attend morning worship on the Sabbath and start the day right. When I came down to church this morning I saw hundreds of automobiles on their way to various points of interest, and in the Protestant churches there were empty pews—and many of them.

"The church man, particularly the young man, falls under the right influence. He meets the right people, and comes into the real life of the community, for the church is the gathering place of all men and women with the right idea of life.

"The church has its faults, all church attending people are not the highest type of Christian people. Perhaps the church needs an abundance of new blood, but the main needs the church just as much as the church needs the man. The place for a man is inside, outside of the church.

"In spite of the handicaps, the minor faults, the church work is progressing rapidly. The church will be found spreading its influence far beyond what is generally believed. Hospitals are being built, charitable institutions being maintained, and the work in the sums is going on to a greater extent as the years go by. The boundless opportunities of a united church can easily be imagined.

"Go to church, I say again. There are valid reasons sometimes for absence from church. If I were to ask a certain number of men who they did not go to church, they would all have reasons of some sort. Some would be honest reasons, too, and others would be the same old excuses that we never pay any attention to. Be honest, anyway, and don't be a lazy, shiftless sort of a mortal that hangs around the house all day Sunday, possibly goes out about 4 o'clock if he has ambition enough to get dressed. Every man that is a man has some conception of the Dural and Miss Eva Beecher and Bonolis received from a church and at others.

Presented a Pipe

Mr. Arthur J. Robillard was Saturday night given a surprise at his home, 122 Aiken street, when a number of his relatives and friends called to congratulate him on the occasion of his 41st birthday anniversary. The host of the evening was presented a handsome meerschaum pipe, the presentation speech being delivered by his son Rosario.
